

Police converge on burglar

WILMINGTON - The last thing a Park Street resident expected when she pulled into her garage last Wednesday afternoon was to hear someone running upstairs in her house. But she did know that nobody was supposed to be home so she immediately left the garage and called the police. While she was on the phone she noticed the suspect scale a fence in the back yard and run into the swamp and woods in the direction of the Shriner's Auditorium off of Fordham Rd.

Tyler Paonessa

By car, the distance between the house and the Shriner's Auditorium is over two miles but on foot the distance is about 300 yards. Quick thinking by the resident and responding police resulted in the arrest of the suspect as he was seen driving the getaway car on Fordham Road at Concord Street.

While numerous officers raced to both areas, officers

No permit (yet) for Krochmal

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The Board of Health held a public hearing on Tuesday night regarding an application by Krochmal Farm for the housing of cattle. The cattle in question are currently being kept within Wilmington town limits.

The farm, much of which lies over the line in Tewksbury, has been embroiled in controversy over the last year or so over odors emanating from its pig-gery operation. Neighbors, many of whom live more than a mile from the farm, assert that the odors have become unbearable over the last several years. The Town of Wilmington has gone on record stating that, over the last couple of years, the North Intermediate School has oftentimes been forced to hold indoor recess on account of the odors.

An estimated 50 people attended the public hearing in the Wilmington Middle School auditorium on Tuesday night as the Board of Health discussed Krochmal Farm's application for a permit to house cattle.

Residents, and even Wilmington Town Manager Michael Caira - speaking on behalf of the Board of Selectmen, urged the Board of Health to refrain from issuing a permit until the odor problem is rectified.

NEASC to visit schools in 2010

System preparing for evaluation

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - The clock is ticking...18 months and counting until New England Association of Schools and Colleges visits Wilmington for its decennial evaluation visit, and preparations are well underway.

High School Principal Eric Tracy presented the Wilmington School Committee with a letter dated September 3, 2008 announcing that the NEASC visiting committee will be in Wilmington on March 14 through March 17, 2010.

Tracy emphasized that this visit is not news to them and they have been working on it for years. He feels they have made excellent strides to get ready to meet the needs of accreditation and acknowledged it will involve a tremendous commitment of time by everyone including students, teachers, parents, administration and School Committee.

Ed Foundation on track

Bringing money to the schools

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - With fundraisers involving hand-made bracelets and student safety books already underway, the Wilmington Educational Foundation (WEF) is making a strong start for this school year in its efforts to support the Wilmington Public School System.

In October, WEF will announce its application process for the WEF School Grant program for schools in Wilmington. The WEF School Grant offers funding up to $3,000 to one of the eight schools here in town to address a need specific to that particular school and its student population. The School Grant is designed to encourage, support and enable creative and innovative educational initiatives by the Wilmington Public Schools. Proposals should enhance community building and collaborative educational programs and promote innovation in learning

Wilmington High School in the forefront

WILMINGTON - Could a virtual classroom truly be as interactive, stimulating, and personalized as a hands-on experience in a traditional classroom?

Fifteen students and one teacher from Wilmington High School are participating in a program that will answer that very question. Participation in the Virtual High School (VHS) program was approved last spring and therefore enrollment was mostly by word of mouth. Still, fifteen students signed up to take 17 classes through VHS. Most of the courses will last for a single semester, but Advanced Placement courses require a full year commitment. Four students are currently taking Advanced Placement courses.

Virtual High School Global Consortium, based in Maynard, MA, is comprised of 500-plus member schools from 29 states and 34 countries. It offers online course design and instruction for teachers and online education for high and middle school students.

Wilmington chose to join as a "Fully Participating School" which means that in return for sponsoring one NetCourse per semester to students in the col-

A look back at Wilmington of yesteryear...

No warning for 1938 hurricane

By LARZ E. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - Hardly a day goes by in the summer and fall that the weather forecast doesn't include some sort of news about a hurricane. With swirling satellite images, radar coast at a 70 mph clip. When it hit Long Island, NY on Sept. 21, it still had 100 mph winds.

Long Island, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Cape Cod were all hit especially hard. The storm took an inland track newspaper clipping, possibly from the old Wilmington Mirror:

Headline: Hurricane leaves trail of wreckage and death Wednesday: The worst storm of its kind in history swept tidal waves and breaking dams. Many persons were missing in the Cape Cod district.

Southern New England states were hit as hard as the Cape section. Martial law was declared in many sections. Militia were on duty in Woburn, North Adams, Fall River, Northampton, Somerville, Worcester, Lowell, New Bedford, Melrose, Everett, Stoneham and Springfield.

Parts of Conn. and Rhode Island were isolated as tidal waves pounded the coastline. Deaths were known to be over 500.

Wilmington fared well in comparison with many cities and towns, although the damage is immense.

All available policemen and firemen were on duty, as were the veterans' organizations, welfare workers and the W.P.A.

Debris is fast being cleared up by local organizations. A falling tree snapped off, sending half of its trunk through the roof of Mrs. Olive Oman's house on Church Street.

The roof of the Lake School was torn off during the storm.

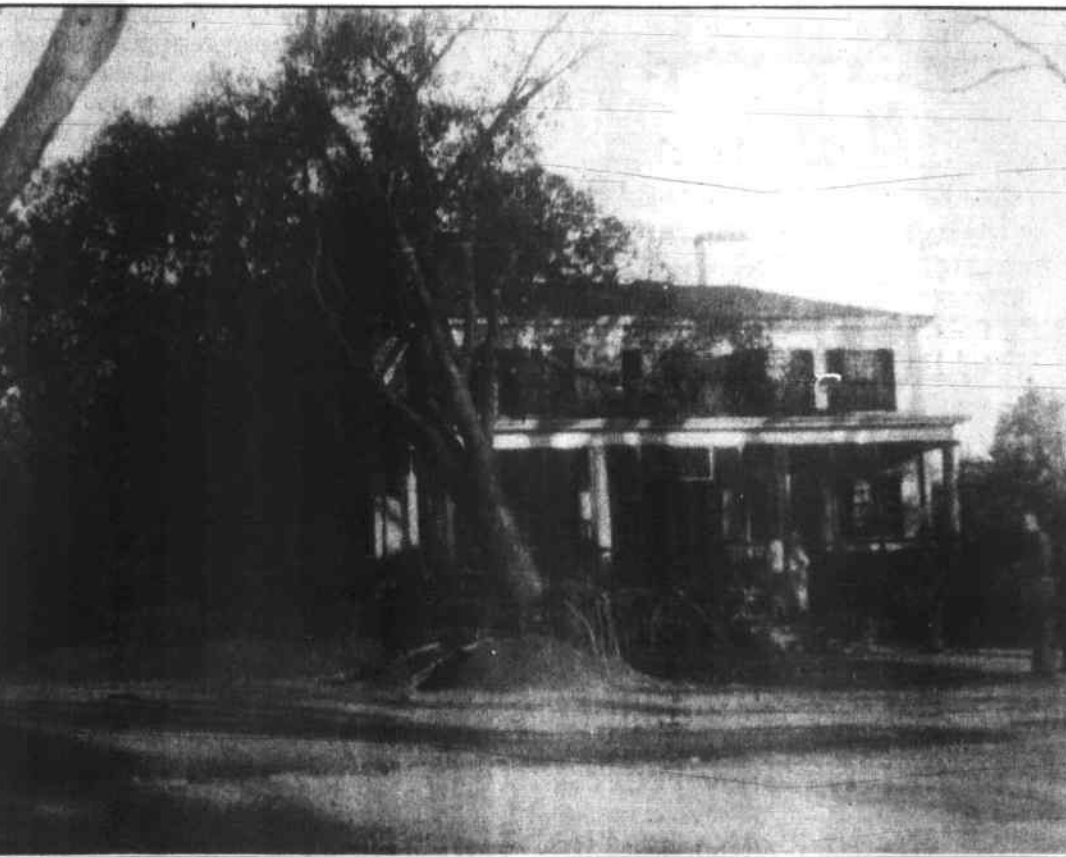

The Lake district was hard hit. Much of the damage is irreparable, as many camps and year round homes were partially or wholly destroyed by falling trees and poles.

A tree crashed on the roof of Mrs. Isabelle McMahon's home on Middlesex Avenue, causing considerable damage.

Dr. MacDougall worked by candle light at the height of the storm on Wednesday, on a childbirth case of Mrs. Sullivan of Milligan Grove.

Milligan Grove, one of the hardest hit spots in town, had to be cleared somewhat before the doctor could get to the house.

Mrs. Brennan of Grove

tracking and reporters standing out in the wind and rain, the art of hurricane forecasting has come a long way.

Such was not the case 70 years ago. The Hurricane of 1938 - it had no name - struck almost without warning. There was knowledge of it, but hurricane forecasting in 1938 was mainly done by ground observers using radio, telephone and telegraph communication. The hurricane had been predicted to go out to sea. Instead it roared up the and went up the Connecticut River Valley, hitting New Hampshire and Vermont. In all, it killed an estimated 682 people, 99 of them in Massachusetts.

There hadn't been such a bad storm since 1869.

Wilmington was lucky. There was nobody killed, and the only injuries were minor. But the physical damage in town was heavy.

The following account of the hurricane was taken from a through New England leaving a trail of death and destruction mounting in the millions, much of it irreparable.

It will be days before the total amount of damage to life and property can be estimated as light and telephone wires are down. Street cars, trains and buses stood stalled as the storm rose in all its fury to 90 miles per hour, tearing up poles, trees and even houses.

Adding to the misery of the hurricane came floods, fire,

New tax scam

A new tax scam has hit the area. The tax collector in Merrimac has received several calls from upset elderly taxpayers who have been contacted by someone stating that they have outstanding tax, either real estate or excise and need to send a payment to an outside address. One elderly person was given an address in Michigan to send her payment to.

All monies for real estate tax and excise tax are paid directly to the Town at the town hall address:

Wilmington Town Hall

Tax collectors office
121 Glen Road
Wilmington, MA 01887

Tewksbury Town Hall
Tax collectors office
11 Town Hall Ave.
Tewksbury, MA 01876

Any questions can be answered at the Treasurer / Collectors office at the town hall or by calling 978-658-3531 in Wilmington or 978-640-4340 in Tewksbury.

Any person who receives such a call should not send any money and call the police.

No permit (yet) for Krochmal

"I was glad to see a significant number of residents turn out to express their opinions," said Wilmington Health Director Gregory Erickson.

With the piggery portion of the farm located entirely within Tewksbury, the cattle permit is seen by many as Wilmington's solitary bargaining chip.

The Cave family, who owns and operates Krochmal Farm, were not entirely without support. One resident suggested that Krochmal Farm should be looked upon as an asset to the town and suggested that it would be a patriotic gesture to support agriculture in the area.

John Cave, Jr. apologized for the odors and assured the residents in attendance that he was exploring new farming methods that would result in much less odor.

Erickson would welcome any and all improvements to the operation.

"Improved farming methods," Erickson said after the meeting, "could play a significant role in the Board of Health's determination in this matter."

The public hearing portion of the application process was closed on Tuesday, and the Board of Health is expected to take up the matter at its October 7 meeting. Whether or not the Board will be prepared to make a decision on the matter at that time is not known.

Avenue was removed to St. John's Hospital Wednesday by officers McAndrews and Newcomb.

Tree Warden Babine and his crew of 30 men cleared the way of poles, trees and debris to get the ambulance through.

Ernest Eames hurt his shoulder Thursday while directing a work party, cleaning up debris on Middlesex Avenue near High Street.

Joe Galka was struck by a flying limb while doing duty near the Reading - Wilmington line early Thursday morning. His hand may be broken.

Large plate glass windows of the Saltonstall headquarters in Wilmington Center were blown out.

For the first time in the history of Wilmington, seagulls landed on Silver Lake. Forced inland by the storm, the gulls adopted the lake as a haven.

It is estimated that well over 1000 trees and 250 poles are down in Wilmington.

One of the most interesting things about the whole calamity is the good natured way in which people have taken their misfortunes.

Another is a ride at night through the dark streets, to see the candle lights flickering in the windows, begging us back to the days of mother and dad and kerosene lamps.

Four large pine trees landed on Larry Cushing's house on Jones Avenue. These photos were taken by George Lynch.

According to Tracy, a Steering Committee including representatives from teachers of math, science, social studies and Special Education, as well as administration, and guidance representatives. These members are currently surveying the staff for individual committee assignments.

The members of the Steering Committee spend time visiting other districts that have recently gone through the process. School Committee Chairperson Peggy Kane noted that this process has benefits that are so important because they have the opportunity of learning from ideas in other schools. They can learn what works and what does not work from the experience of others.

"I think it is one of the best opportunities that any teacher, administrator, guidance counselor, etc can get involved with," said Tracy.

Tracy estimates that the final total expense of the process could be approximately $30,000.

One of the largest expenses involves housing the visiting team in a local hotel and providing access to conference rooms, computers with internet service, food, travel, and other items necessary for the logistics of the visit.

The Steering Committee will soon have its first meeting with NEASC liaison Charles McCarthy who will visit three times during the course of the accreditation process. With his guidance they will complete the self-study required in the process.

During the visit, NEASC has full access to any room in the school to ask anyone any question, according to Tracy. At the conclusion of the visit a preliminary report will be presented that may give some indication of the direction of the final report and NEASC action which will take place sometime between September and November of 2010.

YEAR-END TAX PLANNING

As the year winds down, it's not too soon to start positioning your holdings to minimize taxes. What have you bought and sold this year? (Do you have a loss carry-over from last year?) Have you harvested losses to match gains, so you can take those gains tax-free? Have you unrealized gains or losses that you should take? It's a good habit to review your portfolio regularly.

Are there family members in the 10- and 15-percent tax brackets? That's the 0-percent tax bracket for long-term capital gains and qualified dividends. Consider shifting investments to them-but beware the kiddie tax for youngsters.

Did you contribute too much to your IRA? You can withdraw the excess amount up to April of next year without penalty.

Make sure to pay all deductible expenses by year-end, even if you have to charge them. Prepay tuition, January's mortgage interest and local taxes where you can.

Last year's recipient of the WEF School Grant was the Wilmington Middle School, which was awarded funds for a parent resource program specific to the needs of the Middle School student age group. As part of this program, on September 22, Joanie Geltman, an expert in teen-parent relationships, offered a humorous and thoughtful presentation on adolescence, and led a discussion on the physical, cognitive and social/emotional changes that occur during this stage in a youth's development.

Last year the WEF also provided partial sponsorship of an address given recently by nationally renowned education technology leader Alan November. On September 16, 2008, November spoke before the faculty of the school district about topics such as global communication, collaboration, assessment and critical thinking, and challenged attendees to rethink and redefine their approach to education and technology.

WEF funds these and all of its grant programs with a mix of creative fundraising events. Two programs are currently underway. First, WEF, in partnership with CMARC of Woburn and the Wilmington High School's student marketing group DECA, is offering Wilmington Wildcat bracelets for sale for $10 each.

Jacquie Raffi, President of the WEF explained that one day Superintendent of Schools Joanne Benton noticed a really pretty bracelet on one of the district's bus drivers. The driver explained that the bracelets were made by CMARC, an organization that provides work opportunities and other support services for special needs adults.

WEF and DECA placed and paid for an order of 500 bracelets last spring so that CMARC would have work to provide, and a means to pay, the people who do the work.

These bracelets, made of Czechoslovakian fire polished pressed glass in the Wilmington colors of blue and white with silver accents and a pewter paw print charm, are available in two sizes, youth and adult.

"It gives students a wonderful real life experience marketing and implementing their selling plan," said Raffi who explained that the profits would be divided between WEF and DECA (who will use the money to fund regional and national competitions).

The second fundraiser already in action this Fall is a collaborative effort between the WEF, Wilmington Police Department, Wilmington Fire Department and the School Department to create a safety book for students in grades K-4.

These students will receive a safety book that explains safe things to do, such as what to do in the event of fire, and unsafe things to stay away from such as electrical outlets and stranger danger. Businesses have the opportunity to step up and support the safety efforts by purchasing advertising space in the book.

"Everyone is dedicated to the safety of our children and these businesses are supporting the efforts of these groups," said Raffi who noted that advertising space is still available.

Anyone interested in advertising space may contact Jomarie O'Mahony at jomarie0525@yahoo.com. Residents are encouraged to visit www.wilmingtoneducationalfoundation.org for more information about these fundraisers or other upcoming events.

Police converge on burglar

Brian Moon and Butch Alpers were the first two to arrive in the area of Fordham Rd. As Moon was driving toward the end of the street he noted a vehicle being driven in the opposite direction by a young white male, who appeared to be shielding his face. He radioed for Off. Alpers to check out the car. Alpers stopped the vehicle to check out the driver and immediately noted the driver appeared distracted and that his hands were tightly gripping the steering wheel. When he was unable to answer any questions Alpers asked him to step from his vehicle and immediately noted that his pants were wet and muddy. After a brief inquiry it was determined that the suspect was the individual who had broken into the house. He was identified as Tyler Paonessa, age 23, of 9 Gordon Road in North Reading. He was immediately taken into custody and charged with the housebreak and motor vehicle infractions.

Police K9 officer Eric Palmer and Kimo then initiated a track from the victim's residence that led through the swamp to the cul-de-sac at the end of Fordham Road where the suspect's car had been parked.

Along the way Kimo located a pair of kitchen gloves that had been discarded by Paonessa as he fled through the woods. Police are also looking into the likelihood that a female had remained in the car while it was parked in the cul-de-sac. A local canteen truck operator had noted the car parked at the end of the street and saw a second individual sitting in the car. Police believe the female was dropped off by Paonessa when they heard sirens from the responding police cruisers.

Police also believe that Paonessa may be responsible for another housebreak in the same area of Park St. two weeks ago.

Police have been dealing with a rash of car breaks that occurred over the weekend in several different areas of town. Several vehicles in the West Street area had windows smashed and property stolen on Friday night. Police believe a spring-loaded center punch was used to quietly shatter the windows and gain access to the vehicles, resulting in thefts of cash, GPS systems, briefcases, and other personal belongings.

This area is occasionally targeted by groups from Lynn or Lawrence who sweep in for a short period of time, enter several vehicles, and then leave the area.

A second spree of car breaks targeted unlocked vehicles in the North Wilmington area on Sunday night. Resident in Hathaway Acres, Fiorenza Road, and the Linda Road area awoke to find cars entered overnight. Again, GPS systems, personal belongings, and cash appeared to be the primary targets.

Residents are reminded that although a locked door will keep out most passing criminals, leaving valuable items in plain view inside a vehicle provides an enticing opportunity for those willing to take a chance by breaking a window.

Police encourage any resident who may have seen any suspicious vehicles in those neighborhoods over the weekend to contact the Police Department's Detective Bureau at 978-657-8082.

Town Crier

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 2008

From: The Editors Desk

by Stephen P. Bjork

Something in the air...

It's easy for an outsider to misunderstand the complaints of Tewksbury residents in regard to the odors emanating from Krochmal Farm. After all, the farm was there long before the vast majority of the suburbs that grew up around it.

"Didn't they know there was a farm there when they bought their house?"

Yes, everyone who bought in the area since the 1940's knew there was a farm nearby. It's worth noting that the farm and the neighbors have lived harmoniously for close to sixty years. To dismiss the current issue as a simple case of NIMBYism is easy, but erroneous.

Over the last several years everything changed. Foul odors from the farm began to permeate the neighborhoods surrounding the property in Tewksbury, Wilmington, and Andover. The pungent odor is not that familiar sweet, earthy smell typically associated with working farms, but a repellant odor that reportedly causes the eyes to burn and the nose to run. Residents allege to have noticed the significant change in the farm smells coinciding with the construction of a new building to house the 800 pigs at the farm - a building constructed without permits or notice to neighbors about the major change.

Little more than a year ago a Tewksbury resident, Dave Powers, created a website that provided a forum for aggrieved neighbors. It gave voice to homeowners stymied by the smell, frustrated with not being able to use their backyards for cookouts, or having to keep their children indoors on sunny days because the smell was so powerful. That smell has prevented home sales, kept school kids indoors during recess times in Wilmington, and has adversely affected the property rights of homeowners.

And all along, the owners of Krochmal remained silent, on advice of counsel. Just in the last two weeks, they have finally begun to speak out. The Crier applauds the new openness of the Cave family for starting to talk about the odor and the problems associated with it.

However, the krochmal farms.org website listed on the new 'Vote No' signs that have cropped up around Tewksbury within the last week say something else.

The Vote No signs are in reference to a Home Rule Petition article that will be voted on in Tewksbury's Special Town Meeting of October 7. The Home Rule petition, if passed at Town Meeting and subsequently approved by the State legislature, would define a public process for expansion of pig farms within Tewksbury town limits.

Currently there are no laws on the books to prevent farms from unchecked expansion. Without public scrutiny and safeguards, there is nothing to prevent a neighborhood farm from transforming into something massive, like a Confined Animal Feeding Operation.

The Crier is concerned, incidentally, over the Krochmal Farm's recent assertion that to pass the Home Rule Petition would endanger "open space." The only space affected is privately owned farming land. The concept of "open space" is land that is accessible to the public at large. A request, through the farm's website, for clarification on that point was not acknowledged.

The Crier supports the passage of Tewksbury's Home Rule Petition. We do not see it as a bludgeon to hurt good hardworking agriculturists, but as a tool to maintain good neighbor relations.

Furthermore, the Crier supports the idea of a similar article appearing in Wilmington's next town meeting.

(The preceding piece was a collaborative effort of the town Crier editorial staff.)

Moving Wall - Wilmington

Dear Editor,

The Moving Wall Wilmington '08 Committee would like to express its sincere appreciation to the MANY people and organizations involved in making The Moving Wall in Wilmington possible. The scores of volunteers who gave of their time to work in the information tent or assist guests finding names on the wall all did an amazing job. The people who worked in the 4th of July building selling tee shirts and key chains played a critical role in helping offset the costs of bringing The Wall to Wilmington. The employees of the various Town departments who patiently supported this effort before, during, and after it's presence on The Common. The talented volunteers that built the Wall's staging, helped assemble The Wall and all those who worked on the landscaping, lighting, and other details; and of course, the several stores and restaurants that so generously donated food, coffee, heaters, and other goods to make the volunteer's jobs a bit more comfortable. To those and many more we are so very grateful.

Additionally, we would like to thank the residents of Wilmington. The town of Wilmington proudly and honorably hosted The Moving Wall. We want every resident of the town to know that this was a shining, memorable event that will most certainly go down with the highest praise in the history of Wilmington. This is due, in large part, to the great respect and dignity that every person exhibited when visiting The Wall. For the five days that it was here, and through each of the four ceremonies, thousands of residents and neighbors paid respect and tribute to the fallen heroes listed on The Wall and did so in a way that reinforced the fact that Wilmington and it's residents are the greatest!

It is impossible to thank each and every person individually. If we could, we certainly would. So, please accept The Moving Wall Wilmington '08 Committee's Thanks. You ALL made The Wall's presence here a smashing success. We are confident that Wilmington is better for having had The Wall here. And we, The Committee, are better for having had the opportunity to work with the volunteers and supporters and witness the Town's response. Thank you again!

Vote No on Article 1

Dear Editor and the People of Tewksbury

A very good friend of mine recently said the people of Tewksbury do not equate the Pumpkin Festival we have every fall with the piggery. Yes we are one and the same. Many of the townspeople have brought their children for their pumpkins, hayride or pony ride and had an enjoyable day. So here are a few facts.

First of all, we are not a CFO (Concentrated Animal Feeding Operation) or Factory Farm the EPA's definition of a CFO is "an animal feeding operation that stables and feeds for a total of 45 days or more in a 12 month period 2,500 hogs." If our new barn were filled to capacity it could house 1,500 hogs. We are well below that amount. We chose to have it that way because our hogs are healthier and do not need constant antibiotics. Further, we do not feed our hogs growth hormones. These are things that can make pig waste hazardous if it gets into the environment. We do not do this.

Second, Krochmal Farms was established in the 1940's and has never had as few as 300 hogs. In the seventies John Krochmal raised around 5,000 hogs, his stepson John Cave had a permit in 1998 for 2,000 hogs. To say the farm has expanded and will continue to expand is just another scare tactic of David Power's group. Unless pigs really do fly, manure does not fall from the sky. The one new barn we built replaced three antiquated holding pens. In these holding pens hogs and their manure were left to the elements. The new barn is a controlled environment. If the temperature is too cold the heat turns on and when it's too hot these hogs are automatically misted to cool down to relieve stress. Yes, the manure is stored in a leak proof tank under the building, away from the elements and pumped out on a regular basis. Depending on the season this organic waste is spread on the fields and plowed under the same day or is composted at our licensed facility as recommended by the United States Dept. of Agriculture.

Third, my husband and son have been visiting farms to explore ways to make the waste almost completely odorless. They have decided on a system and we are waiting to hear about the financing of this endeavor.

Fourth, we are Federal and State inspected on a monthly basis and in complete compliance with all Federal and State statutes, regulations and policies. The DEP has been making weekly visits. In addition we already have a Manure Management plan on file with the NRCS and a pest and fly control plan with the TBOH.

Fifth, the farm does not contribute to asthma problems. But living adjacent to a Highway can cause lung and asthma problems in children. (www.sciencedaily.com. Living near a highway affects lung development in children.) Jennies Way does about Route 93.

Sixth, I don't feel the TBOH should, or can, without any additional funding, duplicate what the State and Federal government all ready does. The way Article 1 is written we couldn't even bang a nail anywhere on our property. I don't feel Tewksbury can afford the loss of more open space, as our school system is already in crisis. I appeal to the good sense of you the citizens of Tewksbury to vote NO on Article 1.

The American Farmer

Letter to the Editor:

Last night my wife and I attended a Board of Health meeting on an application by Krochmal Farm to keep "live-stock" for a medium size farm.

Now much was said, and not said, at this meeting that I would like to address and hope you can find space in the paper this week for it.

1: I have never been to a meeting where the applicant stood up and really had nothing to say. Normally you would be dazzled by a site plan showing where the animas would be kept what the site would look like, what transportation route the operation would take to access the farm etc. All we got was maybe 100-to-150 head of beef cattle; nothing else.

2: The arguments that went on to support the farm brought in national security and how we should defend the American farmer. The argument is not that a bunch of Yuppies built their homes too close to this farm in Tewksbury (I live in Wilmington; a long, long way from this farm), but this one farm has been a bad neighbor to the town of Wilmington and to the people of Tewksbury.

3: Many of us took our grandchildren to his farm we went on his hay rides bought pumpkins from him and were good neighbors to him offering our support by buying his products.

4: Now what do we get for all of our years of support for him? We get for our reward - a smell so bad you can't sit out at night and enjoy the warm summer night or open your windows to the cool night breeze in the last few years. Early in the morning his trucks have been spotted coming down Salem Street at a high rate of speed waking up the neighbors when his trucks hit the man hole covers in the street shaking our very houses (what ever happened to no commercial traffic on Salem Street?). Our school children get for their reward - indoor recess because the smell is so bad it was making the kids sick when they went outside to play.

No this is nothing against the American farmer who works hard each day, this is all about a bad neighbor who just does not get it. A neighbor who hides behind national security when asked how many pigs he has. A neighbor who tries to think himself that he is a good farmer just like all the others, but is nothing like our good farms in Wilmington. A neighbor who throws insults to those affected by his operation saying, "what do you expect you moved next to a farm?"

People on Salem Street and all the streets that connect to it have lived next to good neighborhood farms and understood that once in awhile the fields would need to be fertilized, but the smell was nothing like an operation from this farm. Our reward would be fresh local grown produce, pumpkins for the kids to buy and knowing we were keeping the small family farm in business.

To those of you who support local farms I am right there with you, but in this case please tell the Board of Health not to support this one bad neighbor. He has lost our trust and faith and does not deserve a reward he did not earn. We too have rights that have long been overlooked and abused by this bad neighbor. Please buy produce from our good neighborhood farms and do not support one who tramples our rights that many have been fought so hard for.

Jim Murray
Wilmington

Residents of Tewksbury: take control

Dear Tewksbury Residents,

I write this letter urging you to approve Article 1 on October 7th.

I have read several comments criticizing folks who have been complaining about the odors emanating from the pig farm. Some claim these folks should not have moved there and if they do not like it, move. This is ignorance at its worst.

Some have lived in the area for 35 to 40 years! So what if they did just move in, they have rights also. What about the people in Wilmington who live approximately a mile and half from the farm? Should they have known better? What about the Wilmington North Elementary School on Salem St? The Superintendent of Schools informed the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, and the Caves, that recess has been canceled several times due to the odors. Should the school move also?

There is a pattern here. Last night the Wilmington Board of Health (BOH) held a public hearing on whether to permit 150 head of cattle on the Wilmington property the Cave family owns. These cattle are already there and have been for sometime according to testimony. Yet there are no permits. A permit was not filed for the building that houses these cattle either. Sound familiar? The building is open on two sides, which does not meet current regulations for housing livestock. The property is listed as vacant so no taxes are being paid on the building or the soils/compost operation. The only taxed value is about 100,000 dollars for a vacant 65 acres.

There is a compost/soil operation on this property. It is zoned residential, yet this retail/wholesale compost/soil facility falls under zoning for industrial. The commercial facility, BMC, is listed with the Department of Environmental Protection, and depicted on their map, at 1079 South Street, Tewksbury. It is clearly not in Tewksbury, it is in Wilmington! BMC is allowed to bring in 15 tons a day of produce and restaurant waste (food residuals) with no limits on leaf and yard waste. Yet I found nothing in the BOH file permitting the composting of food residuals or pig manure. BMC is also registered with the Department of Agriculture as a composting facility, once again in Tewksbury, that also takes horse manure, still nothing about pig manure.

Mr. Cave stated at the meetings the pig manure is composted on the Wilmington property. This operation has significantly grown over the years. Cattle manure, pig manure, horse manure, food residuals, leaves, and other "wood waste" products all composted here. No wonder there are sickening odors!!!! Is this composted manure being sold to the public? Is it being mixed with the yard waste compost? Do the pig and cattle mortalities get composted and mixed in with it all? Are there risks? Who has the oversight? Is the well water that is used for the cattle and the compost impacted by the Rocco's Superfund site?

Many residents last night, including our Town Manager on behalf of the Wilmington Selectmen, spoke requesting that the BOH not permit the 150 head of cattle until the odor issue is resolved. No one is against the farm. The issue is the continued operation under an agricultural exemption they appear to believe makes them exempt from all other laws and gives them the right to destroy the quality of life of others. I love farms! I worked on one for 5 years. I have a bumper sticker that states "Be a Local Hero, Buy Locally Grown." I would much rather see a properly managed farm here instead of the horrible ramp proposal. But the current operation needs to be managed properly. It has flown under the radar in both towns for far too long. People are suffering.

I hope you folks in Tewksbury take control of the situation within your town and pass Article 1. Some of the folks here in Wilmington, promise to do what we can to take control of the situation in our town.

Wilmington Cooks

by Paula Murphy

Vita Orlando Sinopoli is a beautiful lady who wrote a wonderful book a few years ago called From My Bakery Perch. Chock full of Boston Italian immigrants' traditional recipes, the book also chronicles her memories of life in the North End during the years 1927 to 1958. Her parents moved to Boston from Fitchburg to operate an Italian bread bakery, first on Charter Street from 1927 until 1942, and then on Battery Street until 1950. Through the windows of these bakeries, Vita and her brother Peter witnessed Boston's history.

Vita's life in Wilmington has been rich in history too. She's watched Wilmington grow from a tiny summer destination for hard working immigrant families who took the train here from Boston, to the vibrant and busy town we are today. Vita's parents moved to Wilmington in 1953, where they remained in their rebuilt home on Emerson Street until 1971. Many years of enjoyment were experienced at the Emerson Street home where the Orlando family enjoyed many summer vacations. In 1958, Vita and her husband built a home across the street, where they raised their two daughters and son. Today, all three children remain Wilmington residents, each living within a block or two of each other.

Vita wrote all her life, but never showed her work to anyone. In 1989, she and her husband moved to Cape Cod, where they stayed for 19 and a half years before coming home to be near family again. While there, Vita joined a local writing group and began writing From My Bakery Perch. Today, she continues to gather traditional Italian recipes in anticipation of a second book. She also writes a weekly column for the "Post-Gazette of Massachusetts," located on Prince Street in Boston.

Here are three recipes Vita was kind enough to share with

Cut-up Chicken Sicilian Style

Vita remembers watching her grandmother cook this dish in her outdoor fireplace here in Wilmington.

- 1 three-pound cut-up chicken
- ¼ cup olive oil
- 1 large onion cut in quarters
- 5 cloves garlic
- 3 carrots cut into two-inch pieces
- 2 medium potatoes cut in quarters
- 1 large green pepper cut lengthwise into two-inch wedges*
- 2 tablespoons wine or cider vinegar*
- 1 tablespoon dried oregano
- 1 fresh tomato chopped (optional)
- 1 cup green peas (canned or frozen)
- 1 cup mushrooms (optional)
- 1 cup water
- 1 salt

*two or three slices of prepared vinegar peppers can be used in place of fresh green pepper slices, wine and/or cider vinegar.

Heat oil in a saucepan and slightly brown chicken portions in the pan. Add onion and chopped garlic cloves to saucepan and simmer for a short time before adding chopped tomato, if using, and half a cup of water. Cover and continue simmering slowly until broth boils. Add carrots, potatoes, oregano and additional water. Cover and cook slowly for about fifteen minutes. Add prepared vinegar peppers or fresh peppers, wine or cider vinegar. Stir and add mushrooms, if using, and peas. Stir and cook until chicken and vegetables are fork tender (about thirty to forty-five minutes, depending on chicken pieces). Salt to taste.

This recipe does not require a lot of broth, but enough to serve some with the chicken and vegetables. Add additional water if needed.

Sciuseddu (shoo-shay-doo)

Easter wouldn't be Easter without this soup. My own family enjoys it so much, they request it at Christmas and Thanksgiving too! Vita, who learned this recipe from her mother-in-law, makes it much like my grandmother did.

- 1 three-pound cut-up chicken
- 1 medium fresh tomato (optional)
- 1 tablespoon parsley (optional)
- 1 medium onion
- 3 carrots cut up
- 2 stalks celery cut up
- Acine di Pepe soup pasta
- 1 pound container ricotta cheese

For meatballs:

- ½ pound ground beef
- ¼ cup seasoned bread crumbs
- 1 slightly beaten egg

Boil cut-up chicken in a pot with sufficient water to cover the chicken. After water boils, skim residue off top of water before adding celery, medium onion, tomato if using, some parsley and salt to taste. Bring to a boil and simmer slowly.

In a bowl, mix bread crumbs, one egg and ground beef thoroughly. Roll mixture into one-inch round meatballs. After chicken in broth has boiled about a half-hour, drop small meatballs, one by one, into simmering pot. Stir and cover. Cook slowly until chicken, vegetables, and meatballs are tender.

About twenty minutes before serving, remove chicken from pot and set aside covered in a serving platter. With a tablespoon, drop ricotta cheese gently onto top of broth, trying not to have ricotta cheese break apart. If pot boils too fast, the ricotta may disappear into the broth. Simmer slowly only until ricotta cheese is heated (about five minutes). Meanwhile, cook pasta as directed on the package. Serve with ladle into individual bowls. Add some soup, ricotta cheese, meatballs, and vegetables to each bowl of pasta. Serve chicken separately.

Optional: Serve pasta with soup, meatballs, and ricotta cheese. Serve the vegetables with the chicken.

Note: In my family, we use the chicken and vegetables later in the week, often in a chicken pot pie.

Regina (sesame seed cookies)

Vita's family first started baking these cookies in the 1950's. They continue to be popular in her family today, and she often gives them as holiday gifts. I've added them to my own holiday gift-giving repertoire, as they are always welcome with a cup of tea!

- 3 eggs
- ½ pound shortening (butter, margarine, or butter-flavored Crisco)
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 cups flour
- 1 ½ teaspoons vanilla
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 4 to 6 ounces sesame seeds
- 1 beaten egg for egg wash

Cream shortening and sugar. Add beaten eggs and vanilla. Gradually mix in flour and baking powder. This will be a soft cookie dough. Place sesame seeds in a five-inch bowl. Using a teaspoon, drop a spoonful of cookie mixture into the sesame bowl. Gently cover with seeds and place on lightly greased cookie sheet.

If desired, beat one egg. Using a pastry brush, spread egg wash over cookies prior to baking. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven for fifteen to twenty minutes or until done.

Makes about five dozen cookies. Store in a cookie canister.

Your Two Cents...

A resounding Thumbs Up to the Moving Wall Wilmington 08 Committee for their initiative in bringing The Wall to Wilmington. Viewing The Wall was a gripping and heartfelt experience for me, knowing that our American soldiers died to keep us safe and free. I was proud to involve my 4-year old daughter in this important piece of history.

May God Bless all of our men and women who served and are serving our great nation.

Wilmington

The Wall's visit to Wilmington was a powerfulevent. Stepping back and seeing what more than 58,000 names really looks like hits the mark. It is futile to believe that mankind will ever manage to abolish war, but let's hope and pray that walls memorializing the current and any future wars this great country finds itself a part of get smaller and smaller.

Taking pride in TMHS

Dear Editor:

As the parent of a Tewksbury Memorial High School Senior, I am deeply troubled and frustrated by the unfair criticism our high school has been receiving. Many parents in our town have made the decision to send their students to The Shawsheen Tech or one of the many fine private schools in our area. This is the decision that they have made for their children and they feel it is the right one. My family continues to support our public high school. We also care about a quality education for our children and are confident that TMHS provides them with just that.

Yes, we need a new high school. The building is outdated and too small. We all need to support the construction of a new school, whether we have children in the public school system or not. This project will benefit every single Tewksbury resident.

TMHS is not an evil place of horror! Some of the stories I have heard about our school are shocking and completely untrue. Most often these "tales" come from the parents of children who don't even attend the High School. How would these parents know about our wonderful sports programs, great drama performances, supportive guidance department or caring teachers and staff if they have never experienced it themselves? Please don't believe everything you hear!

Tewksbury Memorial High School is no different than any other high school. Drugs, alcohol and "not so great" kids are present in every high school, including the ones your children attend. The perfect high school doesn't exist. We are all Tewksbury Residents and we should all take pride in our public schools.

Spaghetti success

Dear Editor:

A Big thank you to everyone who participated in the St. William's Men's Club Spaghetti Supper on Saturday, September 27, 2008. Through the efforts of the Men's Club and donations from many members of the Tewksbury Community, we were able to raise $2,545.00, which was given to the Community Pantry.

In addition to working at the spaghetti supper, the men and women of the Men's Club paid over $250.00 for supplies, which were generously donated to the cause. Every dollar raised was given to the Pantry. We had tremendous participation from the Town and we look forward to doing it again next year in support of this great effort.

Resting place of the founding families of Tewksbury

Dear Town Crier,
I am writing in search of volunteers to help clean up the Hunt-Clark Cemetery located at 125 Alcott Street in Lowell. This cemetery is the burial place of the founding families of Tewksbury as well as the burial site of several soldiers from the Revolutionary War. This is part of an ongoing effort by citizens to save the cemetery from natural decay and vandalism and have the site recognized as an important part of our community history.

Its origins date to when this area was part of the City of Cambridge, around 1650. Early burials were those who succumbed to small pox during epidemics in the mid to late 1600s. When Billerica was founded in 1655, this area was incorporated into the town. By the time Tewksbury was founded in 1737, this site was used for a family burial ground of the Hunt and Clark families. Several other family names listed as being "taken" from Billerica at the founding of Tewksbury can be found carved on the beautiful stones of the cemetery, such as the Marshall, Worcester, Chapman, and Brown families. This cemetery remained part of Tewksbury until 1906 when the final section of Belvidere was annexed to Lowell. Unfortunately, the ownership of this cemetery is undetermined and the site has fallen into a deteriorated state.

A group of volunteers will be gathering on October 18, 2008 at the site between the hours of 9:00 am and 2:00 pm. The volunteers will clear leaves and brush from the site, cut down smaller trees, and help repair some of the toppled and broken stones. We welcome anyone who would like to join us in our efforts to help restore this important part of our community's history. If you would like to volunteer, please contact me by the information listed below.

Beverly A. (Bennett) Coombs

"Take time to smell the roses."

SANDOWN, NH - Mrs. Beverly A. (Bennett) Coombs, 71 of Sandown, NH died suddenly on Sunday, September 28, 2008.

"Take time to smell the roses." Beverly will live on in the hearts she leaves behind through the memory of her great love of family, generosity, laughter and wit.

Beverly was born on July 13, 1937 in Woburn Mass, the oldest daughter of Joel T. and Helen E. (Nichols) Bennett. She graduated from Wilmington High School. Through 50 years of marriage, Beverly honed her trade - that of loving and devoted wife and mother.

Her passion for family only grew with the title "Gram, Grandma and Grammy."

She will be remembered with every changing season, as will the excitement that she always kindled within all of us through the years to stay close and stand strong. We'll smile when we hear some unsuspecting soul say "it's on the hoosie-majigger or the what-cha-ma-call-it."

Beverly leaves her loving husband of 50 years, Thomas J. Coombs of Sandown, two sons and daughters-in-law, Michael and Lenore Coombs of Manchester, Douglas and Rachel Coombs of Derry, two daughters and sons-in-law, Kathryn and Robert Lee of Londonderry, Deborah and Robert Zukas of Plaistow, grandchildren, Michelle Thomas, Keith Lee, Justin Lee, Ryan Coombs, Jason Coombs, Rachel Coombs, Kyle Coombs, Tyler Coombs, Thomas Zukas and Tiffany Zukas, 5 great grandchildren, 4 sisters, Joan Guidoboni, Nancy Ball, Cheryl Lannon, Helen (Betty) Bennett and 1 brother, Joel Bennett, 1 brother-in-law James and his wife Beverly of Plaistow and many nieces, nephews and cousins.

The family is having a private service with arrangements through the Peabody Funeral Home of Derry, NH. In lieu of flowers, please send donations to the Paralyzed Veterans of America (Donation Processing Center), Seven Mill Brook Road, Wilton, NH 03086.

Back to routine and back to healthy living

TEWKSBURY - September is the true 'back to routine' month. Kids are back in school, summer BBQs are a thing of the past, and all of our excuses for those sweet indulgences have come to a minimum. If you think about it, Sept/Oct and half of November are the months where we have no excuses - no summer parties, no holidays - just time to buckle down and get back into a solid routine.

Good thing that the Transitions program is coming to Fairway Chiropractic in Tewksbury. Janice Donovan, registered nurse and facilitator of the popular program says: "We teach a diet following the low-glycemic index. The education centers around natural foods that don't accelerate blood sugar levels. We teach how the body reacts and absorbs food and what type of foods can be helpful to maintain low glycemic living. Couple that with exercise and stress management, and we are covering all bases of healthy living."

The "Transitions Lifestyle" program was first brought to Wilmington in April of 2006 by Dr. Stephen Jensen of Wilmington Family Chiropractic. Dr. Jensen says that he chose the Transitions program after reading a scientific study that found "Transitions Lifestyle" clients showed nearly double the weight loss results when compared to those following popular diets such as Atkins, Ornish, Weight Watchers and Zone. Dr. Jensen attributes these results to the broad lifestyle approach of Transitions, "It's not just a diet with foods that you can or cannot eat. Over a course of 12 weeks (broken into two six-week sessions), we educate people on how their body reacts, absorbs and breaks down specific foods. And, now that I've seen the results my patients have achieved, I firmly believe that this is the best weight management system available."

Dr Sue Ferguson and Dr Doug Maguire are excited to incorporate this into their already successful chiropractic business at Fairway Chiropractic in Tewksbury.

"I think the reason for the success rate is that it is a realistic diet plan," says Judy Osborne, program participant. "I have tried many different diet plans, but really have stuck to this one. I am down two sizes and 30 pounds. But I feel great and haven't made drastic changes. I just became more educated about labels."

So, if you're ready to look and feel great this Fall, and would like to learn how to lose weight and, more importantly, how to keep it off, there will be a FREE "Transitions Lifestyle" open house being held next week on Wednesday October 8, at 7:00 p.m. at Fairway Chiropractic, 1501 Main St Unit #2, Tewksbury. If you plan on attending the open house or wish to sign up for the program, please contact Fairway Chiropractic at 978-851-9055, or Janice Donovan, RN at 978-815-5019.

Troop 47 of Tewksbury recently participated in Flags-on-the-48 (www.flagsonthe48.org) in New Hampshire's White Mountains again this year. Simultaneously, other groups flew flags atop forty-seven other peaks in the White Mountains.

The troop flew the American Flag on Mt. Tom in Crawford Notch on Saturday, September 13th from noon to 2 p.m., to honor the victims of 9/11. The scouts could easily see other flags on nearby peaks as they welcomed many visitors. The troop brought along a listing of all of the victims, with special mention of those with local connections: Peter Hashem and Peter Gay of Tewksbury, Brian Kinney of Lowell, and Andrew Curry Green of Santa Monica, CA. Green was a staff member at the Wah-tut-ca Scout Reservation in Northwood, NH, where the troop spends a week each summer. The troop has been participating in this event since 2006.

Tewksbury Public Schools welcome parent/guardian involvement

By Christine L. McGrath, PhD.

Superintendent of Schools

Students who enjoy success in school have the benefit of the active involvement of parents and guardians in their educational program. Two important ways to become involved includes lending academic support and volunteering in the schools.

Parents and guardians can lend academic support by reviewing the homework assignments each evening and checking over the completed homework. Parents and guardians can also help their children to develop a schedule to manage their time in completing long-term assignments such as book reports and class projects. Additional support includes providing a dedicated space for homework, equipped with some basic school supplies and encouraging your child to read each day.

I would encourage parents and guardians to contact the school if your child is experiencing any academic difficulty. Teachers provide extra help sessions each week to meet the needs of any student who is struggling. Teachers also schedule time each week for conferencing. Please schedule a conference if you have any questions or concerns about your child's progress or the academic program.

Parents and guardians may also become involved in the broader life of the school. Each school has a Parent Advisory Council (PAC). The PAC meets monthly and works hard to raise money for the school. These funds are used to support enrichment programs, purchase materials and equipment and to fund field trips. Each school also has a School Council, Parents, guardians and community members can serve on this Council. The Council advises the principal on the school budget and safety plan and develops an annual School Improvement Plan to benefit the work of the school.

Many parents and guardian become involved through volunteering in our classrooms, working in the library, serving as noon supervisors during lunch and recess, chaperoning field trips or helping to beautify school property.

We hope that you will take an active role in your child's school program. We look forward to forging a successful home-school partnership

Buonomo indicted for alleged theft of public monies

WOBURN - The former Middlesex County Register of Probate has been indicted in connection with his alleged theft of public monies, Middlesex District Attorney Gerry Leone recently announced.

John R. Buonomo, 56, of Newton, was indicted today by a Middlesex County Grand Jury on charges of breaking and entering into a depository with intent to commit a larceny (12 counts), theft of public property by a city/town/county officer (eight counts), and larceny under $250 (eight counts).

An arraignment date has not yet been set.

On August 6, Buonomo was arrested by State Police assigned to the Middlesex District Attorney's PACT Unit. It is alleged that Buonomo, a then county-wide elected official, engaged in a repeated pattern of stealing cash and coins from copy and money machines at the Office of the Register of Deeds over a period of weeks.

Video surveillance cameras installed by the PACT Unit captured the defendant engaged in these acts numerous times during the months of June, July, and August. The Register of Deeds office is located in the same building as the Register of Probate office.

Buonomo resigned from his position as Register of Probate on September 7.

The investigation began in June when information was obtained regarding the suspected ongoing theft of monies from numerous copy machines and cash machines within the Registry of Deeds, located at 208 Cambridge Street in Cambridge. The Registry of Deeds had noticed monthly shortages in receipts received from their copy machines estimated to be as much as thousands of dollars over a period of months.

Based on this and other information obtained during a subsequent investigation, the PACT Unit commenced video surveillance on the second floor and basement areas of the Registry of Deeds office. During the following weeks, usually at the end of the workday, Buonomo is regularly observed on video accessing the money machines in the basement and second floor of the Registry of Deeds. He was often captured on video removing a stack of dollar bills, counting the money, and then returning a portion of those bills to the machine while pocketing the rest.

During the weeks of the investigation, Buonomo is captured on video accessing one of the machines on at least eighteen separate occasions. He is believed to have taken cash and coins for himself on at least eight of those occasions.

According to the Registry of Deeds, Buonomo has no authority to access the cash machines or copy machines on the Registry of Deeds side of the building nor does he have the authority to remove money from the machines.

After his arrest, Buonomo was arraigned in Cambridge District Court on August 7 where he pleaded not guilty and was released on personal recognizance.

The investigation into his alleged actions is ongoing.

The Middlesex District Attorney's PACT Unit, established when District Attorney Leone took office, is dedicated to the investigation and prosecution of cases of public protection (including narcotics and organized crime), anti-terrorism, corruption, and technology.

These charges are allegations, and the defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty.

The case is being investigated by the Massachusetts State Police assigned to the Middlesex District Attorney's PACT Unit. It is being prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney John Verner, Chief of the PACT Unit.

Tewksbury Historical Society announces office hours

The Tewksbury Historical Society announces it will have "Office Hours" every Tuesday from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. in the Local History Room at the Tewksbury Public Library. Officers of the Society and volunteers will be available to help visitors and answer questions about Tewksbury's history. This new Historical Society "service" is the result of an agreement between the Society and the Library Trustees. Both organizations, having a similar mission, have agreed to work cooperatively to preserve and present Tewksbury history.

Mr. and Mrs. Vito Ivas donated to the Society a beautiful oak cabinet, formerly from the Foster School. It was moved into the Library's Local History Room and is being used to house various books, artifacts and photographs from the Society's collections. These items are available for inspection and research by the general public. People interested in Tewksbury history are welcome to visit any Tuesday. Tours for school children can be arranged and our volunteers will interpret pictures, maps and Native American artifacts located in the room. Come in and discover local history and stories about Tewksbury's past!

Several loyal Historical Society members have been volunteering their time weekly. Doris McPhail, Bill Fullerton and Louise Hunt work on the photographic archives, placing our historical pictures in acid free Mylar sleeves to protect them from deterioration and damage. Dave Marcus, Society President, is arranging them in binders, numbered and sorted by category.

The Society is always happy to receive donations of artifacts, books and photographs relating to Tewksbury's past. If you have photos you would like to donate to the Society, we would be happy to have copies made for you or if you want to retain the originals, we could arrange to return them to you. We would then add the copies to our archives instead of your originals. Of course we would prefer the originals. The Society is preparing to produce a book of historical pictures of Tewksbury, so if you would like to have some of your personal photos considered for inclusion, please contact us. If you donate an artifact, book, document or photograph, we will issue you a temporary receipt form, followed later by a formal letter of acceptance from our archive committee. An accession form included with the letter may be used as proof of your donation and will allow you an income tax deduction. Be aware of private collectors soliciting Tewksbury photographs or artifacts for their private collections. Without a formal letter of acceptance from the Society, the donation is not the property of the Tewksbury Historical Society and cannot be claimed as a tax deduction.

Any donations made to the Society will be preserved and protected for use and study by the general public under the guidance and protection of the Society. If you are unable to come to the History Room on Tuesdays to make your donation, you may contact us to make other arrangements. A commemorative poster for Tewksbury's 275th anniversary is in the planning stages. The Society is represented by Dave Marcus and Society member Tony Coviello. They are working on several projects for the celebration. Watch for more news on this. Tewksbury Historical Society P.O. Box 522 Tewksbury, Ma. 01876 or Email: tewksburyhistoricalsociety@msn.com.

Caitlin Panessiti received a first place ribbon for her painting of a clown which was entered in the Tewksbury Community of Artists' art show on Saturday. The event was held at the Wynn Middle School.

Teach Your Child to Be a Better Listener

Program: Wednesday, October 8, 6:30 p.m.

"How many times do I have to tell you? Pay attention!" In many households these are familiar words. You can teach your child to listen by being a better listener yourself. The modern drive to multitask often gets in the way of genuine listening. Stop and face your child when he or she speaks to you. Try to minimize distractions in your home such as having the TV on when no one is watching. Those who listen well learn more effectively and have better relationships throughout their lives. At this workshop to be presented by Marianne Blanchet for parents of young children on Wednesday, October 8th at 6:30 p.m., you will learn how games such as "Simon Says" and "Be My Echo" can increase listening skills for all children. Please visit or call the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098 to register. Funded by the Family Foundations Network, a program funded by the Massachusetts Department of Early Education and Care and managed by Community Teamwork, Inc.

Book Discussion for Ages 7 & Older

Program: Friday, October 10, 3:30 p.m.

Growing up with four complainers for brothers, Will Woodman has a hard time getting an audience for his own troubles. He has to wait in line to gripe to his mom—and that leaves his dad. But since his dad is so busy, Will has to defer to his older (and faster) brother, Marty. Will decides that what he really needs is his own grown-up to complain to, and he has the perfect guy for the job—someone who's a good listener and has a lot of free time—Grandad. Swapping sob stories with Grandad doesn't prove to be as satisfying as Will thought. Grandad has tons of pathetic stories to choose from, and one is worse than the next! When Will learns of the legend of the worst boy in the world, he knows he has finally hit the jackpot. Find out more when you read Eoin Colfer's Legend of the Worst Boy in the World. Join children ages seven and older for their discussion of this book to be held on Friday, October 10th at 3:30 p.m. Copies of the book may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098. Drop-in for the discussion. A door prize and dessert will be provided by the Friends of the Library.

Drop-in for a lively discussion of Greg's hilarious journal of writings and cartoons. Copies of the book may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098. ## Dressbarn in Tewksbury hosts fundraiser for American Cancer Society

According to American Cancer Society estimates, in 2008 alone, about 182,460 new cases of invasive breast cancer will be diagnosed among women in the United States and 40,480 women will die from the disease. Such statistics are a stark reminder of how precious life and good health are, which is why dressbarn is joining in the fight against breast cancer.

This October, in support of Breast Cancer Awareness Month, dressbarn in Tewksbury, part of a leading retailer and authority on women's fashion, will contribute profits from the sale of Chloe - a plush dog - to the American Cancer Society's local and national breast cancer initiatives.

Chloe will retail for $5, and dressbarn will donate a minimum of $2.50 from the sale of each dog to the American Cancer Society, targeting breast cancer research. Dressbarn will be selling Chloe from October 1 through December 15, or while supplies last. With more than 825 locations nationwide, Dressbarn hopes to raise over $100,000 through this year's campaign.

"Cancer, and especially breast cancer in women, is so far reaching that it really touches us all," said Mary Kenneally, district sales manager for dressbarn in Tewksbury. "It is extremely important to the dressbarn family that we help make a difference in the fight against cancer and that we support breast cancer patients and survivors. With the help of our customers through their purchase of loveable Chloe, we will continue the fight against this disease and build hope for women everywhere."

According to Mary Kenneally, Chloe is a loyal friend who serves as a gentle reminder of how breast cancer can affect so many lives.

"We hope that Chloe will inspire others to join us in this initiative and to support the fight against the disease," said Mary Kenneally.

For the past six years, dressbarn has been part of a caring community, offering support through fundraising and awareness programs. Together, with customers and Associates, dressbarn, Inc., has proudly contributed over $4.5 million to the American Cancer Society for the fight against cancer.

Troop 47 of Tewksbury recently participated in Flags-on-the-48 (www.flagsonthe48.org) in New Hampshire's White Mountains again this year. Simultaneously, other groups flew flags atop forty-seven other peaks in the White Mountains.

The troop flew the American flag on Mt. Tom in Crawford Notch on Saturday, September 13th from noon to 2pm, to honor the victims of 9/11. The scouts could easily see other flags on nearby peaks as they welcomed many visitors. The troop brought along a listing of all of the victims, with special mention of those with local connections: Peter Hashem and Peter Gay of Tewksbury, Brian Kinney of Lowell, and Andrew Curry Green of Santa Monica, CA. Green was a staff member at the Wah-tut-ca Scout Reservation in Northwood, NH, where the troop spends a week each summer. The troop has been participating in this event since 2006.

Keep your mail carrier safe this fall season

"Many Town Crier readers may argue that autumn is the best of our four seasons. The beautiful colors of the leaves inspire us to seek out the best vantage points to view the dazzling tapestry. And while we all agree that leaves are beautiful on trees, once they fall, they can become a hazard when left on walkways, driveways or porches," said Postmasters Charles T. "Chuck" Nichols, Wilmington, and Joanna M. Louf, Tewksbury.

"During the winter months, you are diligent at removing snow around mail boxes and walk areas. On behalf of the service workers and guests visiting your home, we hope you will make the same effort at clearing leaves from the passage ways leading to your doors and mailbox," they said.

"They said leaves that look dry can hold moisture underneath, making them slippery over concrete, blacktop or a wooden structure, like a porch. By keeping these areas clear of leaves, you will lessen the chance of someone slipping and possibly being injured."

"Thank you for your cooperation as we look to keep your postal carrier out of harm's way. We welcome our daily visit to your home and look forward to another safe season of serving you," they said.

WHS and Virtual High School

laborative, WHS can enroll 25 students per semester (50 per year) in any of the VHS online courses. Each additional NetCourse that a school sponsors provides access to expanded memberships with 25 additional student seats in both the fall and spring semesters.

In the summer of 2007 WHS student Amanda Donahue went to Ireland with a student ambassador program called People to People, so when she noticed Contemporary Irish Literature on a long list of classes she could take in VHS, she knew right away it was the course she would choose.

In a letter presented to the School Committee Donahue wrote, "On September 3rd I walked into the library for period two. I was pretty excited because it was the first official day of my VHS class. I was as anxious as a freshman on their first day of high school. I sat down at a computer and typed in the website www.govhs.org and signed in. I took a deep breath and pressed the dreaded link, lessons. Putting my fears and joys aside I read the first assignment; take a virtual tour of Dublin, Ireland."

Donahue participates in a class with 13 students from all over the country. She said one of her friends is taking a forensic science course through VHS

Donahue describes herself as a 'regular student' in her WHS classes. She said, "I've taken classes over the past three years that I loathed and classes that inspired me, but no feeling for a class comes close to what I feel for my VHS class."

She can log in at any time, so Donahue has logged in after school and even on weekends just to spend more time on her coursework. "If you are someone who needs total solitude with no distractions while doing class lessons, you can work from home and use the time in school getting caught up with discussions or getting to know your classmates better from their self-created homepage."

Donahue enjoys her class so much that she has already signed up to take another course next semester; Investing in the Stock Market. "If you know anyone who was thinking about taking a Virtual High School class, I seriously recommend it," said Donahue.

Social Studies teacher Maura Tucker is equally enthusiastic about VHS. Tucker exclaimed, "It's great - It's a lot different than I thought it would be!" Tucker said she'd been a little apprehensive about her online class through VHS because the best part of her job is interacting with students, but in fact she finds that she now interacts with all of her students daily through the structure of the online class. Tucker and her students also have the opportunity to get to know each other because each student creates their own homepage that is only accessible to class participants.

Each week there are two discussion questions presented to the class and each student must post at least three times in each discussion. "It is amazing how they hash out the problems with each other," said Tucker. Many students are from New England, but one happens to be from Alaska, home to the Republican Vice Presidential candidate, and that has prompted insightful discussion.

"It works out really nicely teaching Intro to Government in the middle of an election and a current fiscal crisis," said Tucker of some of the discussion topics students actively participate in.

Tucker concluded, "I'm really happy with it [VHS] and I wish more students would take advantage of it because it offers things we will never be able to... I definitely think this is the wave of the future and we're in the forefront of this kind of learning."

Wilmington resident Monteforte completes Eagle Scout project

The Wilmington Town Museum at the Harnden Tavern and the Wilmington Historical Commission are delighted to be able to announce the opening at the Museum of a new staircase leading to the Museum's Carriage House and its agricultural tool exhibit. This staircase was designed, financed and constructed by Nicholas Monteforte and Boy Scout Troop 56 as Nick's Eagle Scout project. Members of the Wilmington Historical Commission, which approved this project, are delighted with the results. This impressively constructed staircase will enable visitors to the Museum to more easily be able to "climb the hill" which leads to the Carriage House entrance. It is especially fitting that this Eagle Scout project provides improved access to the agricultural tool exhibit, which was installed as an Eagle Scout project by Matthew Marden two years ago.

A ribbon cutting ceremony will take place at the Town Museum on Sunday, October 5 at 2:00 p.m.

Representatives from the Wilmington Historical Commission, Boy Scout Troop #56 and, of course, Nick Monteforte himself will be on hand to show off the project and discuss how it came to be. The public is invited and refreshments will be served. The Carriage House, as well as the Harnden Tavern, will be open for tours. # New Hampshire Man Pleads Guilty, Sentenced for Transferring and Disposing of Hazardous Waste

WOBURN - On September 17, the former president of the Pacetti Corporation, a metal finishing company in North Reading, pled guilty to charges of illegally disposing of and transferring hazardous waste. Stephen M. Swisher, 52, of Londonderry, NH, pled guilty in Middlesex Superior Court on charges that he violated the Massachusetts Hazardous Waste Management Act (4 counts). Judge Kathe M. Tuttleman sentenced Swisher to serve two years of probation and ordered him to pay a fine of $12,500. Swisher was also ordered to pay full restitution in the amount of $1,618, to the town of Wilmington for the cleanup of the sites where he illegally dumped 12 drums of waste material in two wooded areas in Wilmington.

In May 2006, the Wilmington Police responded to two drum dumping incidents in two days, both in wooded areas of residential neighborhoods. On May 25, 2006, five 55-gallon drums were found in the vicinity of 69 Park Street, a few feet from a stream leading to a town well field. The following day, seven more abandoned drums were found in the Hathaway Acres section of Wilmington, in an area adjacent to wetlands that also connects to the town water supply. Analysis of the material content of the drums revealed that the drums contained hazardous waste, specifically a combination of waste oil and lead contaminated industrial wastewater.

Identifying information found on some of the drums connected them to the Pacetti Corporation that was formerly located at 4 Hallberg Park in North Reading and owned by Swisher. On previous occasions, when his company was operational, Swisher properly disposed of hazardous waste generated by his facility. According to authorities, on the two dates in May of 2006, Swisher improperly disposed of the hazardous materials in order to facilitate the sale of his building. Swisher is not licensed to transport or dispose of hazardous waste. Authorities were able to determine that Swisher received an estimate from a licensed disposal company for $1,600 for the proper disposal of the drums, but did not contract with the company.

Instead, Swisher told authorities, he paid a person that he met at a bar $500 to dispose of the waste and then gave the person access to his building and the drums of hazardous waste. Swisher's actions constituted violations of the Massachusetts Hazardous Waste Management Act.

The case was initially brought to the attention of the Environmental Crimes Strike Force by the Wilmington Police and the Department of Public Works who responded to the initial dumping sites. The drums were found in an environmentally sensitive area and were exposed to the general public and the environmental elements.

A Middlesex Grand Jury returned indictments against

Swisher on October 23, 2007. He was arraigned on the charges on Nov. 29, 2007. On September 17 of this year, Swisher entered a change of plea from not guilty to guilty and was ordered to serve probation as well as pay restitution and fines.

This case was investigated by the Massachusetts Environmental Crimes Strike Force (ECSF), an interagency unit that includes prosecutors from the Attorney General's Office, Environmental Police Officers assigned to the Attorney General's Office, and investigators and engineers from the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (MassDEP). The ECSF is an interagency enforcement team overseen by Attorney General Coakley, MassDEP Commissioner Laurie Burt and Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Ian A. Bowles. The ECSF investigates and prosecutes crimes that harm or threaten the state's water, air, or land and that pose a significant threat to human health.

Assistant Attorney General Wendoly Ortiz Langlois, of Attorney General Coakley's Environmental Crimes Strike Force prosecuted this case. The investigation was conducted by William Sirull of MassDEP's Waste Management Program, former MassDEP investigator Peg Carson, and Environmental Police assigned to the Attorney General's Office.

Road race brings out hundreds of runners

Event a complete success once again

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

On Sunday, the fourth annual Half Marathon/5K road race was another success as hundreds of participants showed up on the rainy morning to run and raise money for the Wilmington community. The event had a 13.1 mile road race, along with the new addition of the 5K run or walk.

Laura Ahern has been a part of the road races since its inaugural in 2005, and she said it was a great turnout again this year.

"We had so much fun the day of the event," said Ahern, the assistant director of the rewarding day. "The rain couldn't have stopped any of us. We had over 300 runners/walkers, and the day went off successfully without a hitch. We are so lucky to have dedicated people that are committed to making this event successful. We have received numerous e-mails complimenting us on the course, the organization of the race, and the free food/entertainment."

"Our hard work and dedication paid off and we ended up raising more money than in previous years. We can't wait to present the checks to the high school students and the Wilmington Community Fund, which helps out the food pantry."

Denise Gentile is the other assistant director of the races, and she agreed with Ahern as she thought the day was terrific as well.

"I think the day went great," said Gentile. "Even though the weather was rainy the people contagious.

"My favorite part of the day was hearing how enthusiastic and proud my children and their friends were for finishing a 5K race. They all want to do another one soon. This to me is worth running 13 miles in the rain any day."

In the half marathon race, Wilmington resident Dan Vassallo cruised to the title, coming across at 1:09.08, which was seven minutes better than runner-up Mark Hudson of Reading. Following Vassallo in terms of the top eleven local finishers include: Dave Dechellis of Tewksbury (3rd, 1:19.47); Ken Warren of Wilmington (14th, 1:25.34); Simonetta Piergentilli of Wilmington (23rd, 1:30.22); Paul Maiella of Wilmington (29th, 1:33.25); John Gorvin of Wilmington (44th, 1:38.18); Bobby Surran of Wilmington (54th, 1:42.43); Jason Gustin of Wilmington (60th, 1:45.32); Ken McCowan of Wilmington (60th, 1:45.32) and then friends Emily King and Amanda Lojek both of Wilmington, came in at 63rd and 64th at 1:46.36 and 1:46.37, respectively.

In the 5K race, Jim Quadros of Lowell won it with a time of 17:20.6. Following him in the next ten locals include: Rebecca Connolly of Wilmington (4th, 20:32.1); Joseph Fitzgerald (7th, 20:48.4); Janet Rose of Tewksbury (9th, 21:30.1); Keith Medeiros of Wilmington (11th, 21:38.7); Bill Eagston of Wilmington (12th, 21:42.1); John Mellen of Tewksbury (13th, 22:39.7); Teddy Miele of Wilmington (19th, 23:34.0); came out. I give them credit. The runners and the help were all there. We always try to do our best and I feel people realized it and enjoyed themselves. I thank everyone for all the support we get."

Ahern enjoyed many parts of the day, but she said the best were watching all the runners, especially children, having fun.

"I enjoyed seeing the dedicated Half Marathon runners show up and ready to run - rain or shine," said Ahern. "I enjoyed seeing all the young kids with their families and friends enthusiastic about raising money for their charity even in the pouring rain. I loved seeing (Wilmington resident) Veronica Slater and her (Cystic Fibrosis) team with smiles on their faces when they finished and then waiting for her mom Cheryl to finish the Half Marathon."

Gentile also liked watching Veronica smile when her mother finished the 13.1 mile race.

"Seeing Veronica Slater come across the finish line was amazing," said Slater. "I liked watching everyone come across the finish line. Seeing the look on their faces, knowing what they had accomplished, being young or old was great."

Cheryl Slater, who ran the half marathon to benefit her nine year old daughter who was diagnosed with cystic fibrosis, was clocked at 2:12:43 in the half marathon.

"I think it was a great day," said Slater. "I think the success of the event goes to the organizers, volunteers, runners and spectators. On such a rainy day everyone was in great spirits and it was truly

Ashley Steenbruggen of Wilmington (20th, 23:36.2); Traci Medeiros of Wilmington (21st, 23:44.6) and Elaine Gilson of Wilmington (26th, 25:17.6).

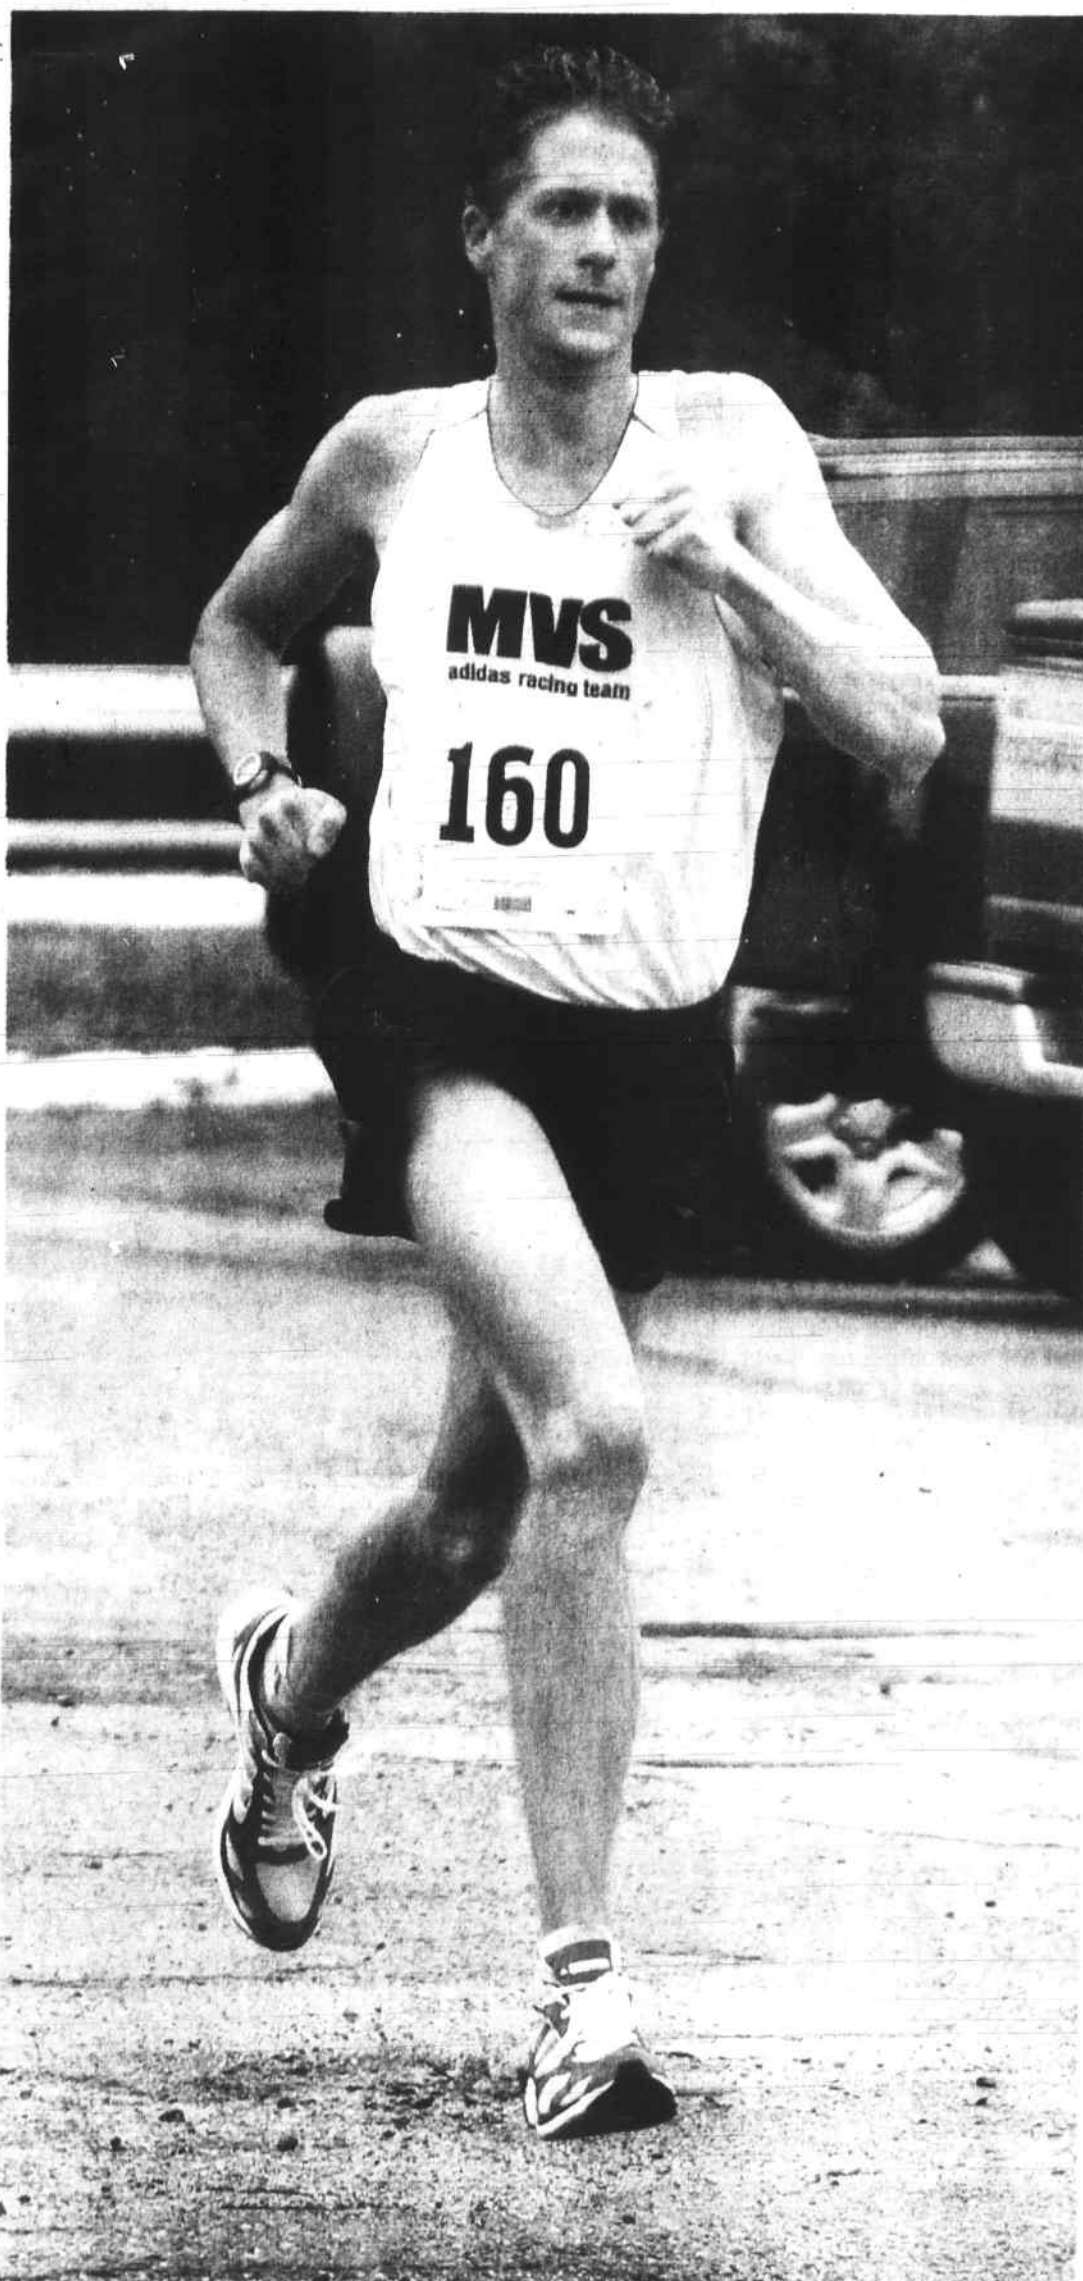

Ahern said that there are several people that was worth mentioning for setting up the day.

"First, I want to once again thank our company sponsors, because without them, this race wouldn't happen," said Ahern. "Secondly, I would really like to thank Ed and Sue Coughlin of Wilmington for making the course such a success. They are there each and every year with their team of volunteers including the Wilmington Rotary Club at every mile along the race with mile markers and water stops. Ed and Sue are such an intricate part of the race, we appreciate everything they do."

"Thirdly, I would like to thank the Wilmington Police for their support and Michael Cairra, Town Manager for his participation in this years event. Lastly, I want to sincerely thank "all" the volunteers and participants of the race, because their dedication is outstanding."

Ahern also added that she hopes to see more participants at the race next year and help raise money for the community.

"We are so lucky to have family and friends in our lives that fight for something they believe in," said Ahern. "I am just so happy we can help out in such a small way. We hope to see you next year because you are truly making a difference. Please remember it's never too early to sponsor the race."

Vassallo easily takes half marathon title

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

After finishing in an incredible 24th place overall in his first ever Boston Marathon this past April, Wilmington resident Dan Vassallo achieved glory again on Sunday. The 23-year-old, who was incredibly the ninth American to finish the Boston Marathon, ran in the Wilmington Half Marathon road race and finished in first place.

Shocker? Not at all. Most people on Sunday expected Vassallo to win the 13.1 mile road race, and it would have been a shocker if Vassallo, who set several cross country records for the Wilmington High School team, placed any lower than first.

"It was a relief to be the first across the finish line," said Vassallo on the fourth annual event. "I was well aware that many people were expecting me to win by a lot, but you can never be sure until the race is over, as someone faster can always come out of the woodwork."

Vassallo ran the Wilmington Half Marathon for the first time in his life, and the 2007 Colby College graduate gave it his very best effort as he finished with a time of 1:09:08, which was seven minutes and ten seconds faster than the second place finisher, Mark Hudson of Reading.

"I felt that after I got all that publicity after the Boston Marathon, I owed it to my hometown to come back and run this race with the same intensity that I ran Boston," said Vassallo. "I've been interested in doing (the half marathon) since Wilmington started holding it in 2005, but for the first two years it was in the middle of Colby College men's cross-country season and last year it was the week before my debut marathon."

This was the first time I was finally able to run it, and I'm glad I did."

The marathon Vassallo debuted in last year was the Peak Performance Maine Marathon, and Vassallo broke the 26.2 mile course record by more than three minutes as he finished with a time of 2:26:54.

Vassallo said that he did not do training geared towards this year's road race, as he used it to prepare himself for an upcoming marathon he will be running in during the end of November.

"I didn't specifically train for this race, as I'm using it as a way to tune-up for the Philadelphia Half-Marathon (on November 23rd)," said Vassallo. "It also happened to be a matter of good timing, as the (Wilmington Half Marathon) is eight weeks

Pazyra deserves a lot of the credit

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

The number one person who deserves credit for setting up the Wilmington Half Marathon/5K road race is the Head Director Tom Pazyra. Pazyra started the event four years ago in honor of Wilmington's 275th Birthday and the races have continued as an annual tradition ever since.

"For the birthday year, a special 275th committee was formed with the goal of running events throughout the entire year," said Pazyra. "As a runner, I thought it would be a great idea to have a race that could be run throughout the town of Wilmington. The half marathon accomplished this. The first year was such a great success that we decided to continue."

Pazyra thought that the road races were terrific this year, as many people showed up and had a great time.

"It was a wonderful event," said Pazyra. "I was very concerned with the weather, never expecting over 350 people to show up, including 170 half marathoners. I think the weather had an impact on the number of walkers we had. The runners will run in anything and actually the rain is preferred by some. I was pleasantly surprised and I want to thank everyone who participated being runners, walkers, and volunteers on such a rainy day."

This year's event featured the new addition of the 5K road race, and Pazyra said it was a huge success.

"The idea came from (assistant directors) Laura Ahern and Denise Gentile, and we drew more people because of it" said Pazyra. "It appeals to more people since the half marathon can be too much for some. Plus, the 5K is open to walkers which expands our range."

Approximately 170 participants ran in the half marathon on Sunday and the remainder of the 315 participants were a combination of 5K runners and walkers.

One of these people was Jim Quadros of Lowell, who finished first in the 5K road race with a time of 17:20.6.

"I think it was a very well run event," said Quadros, who ran in the event because he thought it was a great cause. "I think the course was very nice."

Pazyra added that the race committee has already started planning for next year's event in hopes of making it another successful day.

"The planning is ongoing throughout the year, but we start the moment the last race ends," said Pazyra. "We always come up with ideas to improve on race day, so we start as soon as it is over."

There are several people who deserve appreciation for setting up Sunday's road race. The Town Crier will post a list of the volunteers and sponsors who made the event a success in next week's newspaper.

Girls Soccer teams met on Tuesday

Wilmington upends Tewksbury in non-league match

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Tuesday afternoon's match-up was between two teams that really needed two points to help turn the early season around. Wilmington came into the game with a record of 1-4-2, including giving up 20 goals in seven games. Tewksbury came into the game with a 3-4-1 mark, which includes scoring just one goal in their previous six games.

The Wildcats all but dominated this non-league game, scoring a goal in each half, while really controlling the possession, the tempo and the offensive chances throughout the 80 minutes.

Charlotte Jensen and Stephanie Benson scored the two goals, leading the Wilmington High girls' soccer team past the Redmen, 2-0, played at the Shawsheen Elementary School.

Wilmington has struggled for consistency throughout this season, whether it's playing as a team, finishing its chances or playing sound defense. But on Tuesday, the Wildcats played as a team from start to finish. Wilmington utilized its strengths, with smart short passes, solid one-touch give-and-gos, not to mention restarts, which really gave Tewksbury a lot of problems.

"Yeah it was a real good team effort win," said Wildcat head coach Sue Hendee. "We've been really trying to emphasize that lately. I think that was Steph Benson's best game so far, and Alexa (Brown) has really stepped up since Rachel (Grabar) got hurt, and (Alexa) has gotten much more action and has played very well. Ally Robbins is another one who played really well."

Hendee was asked about the improvement with her team's domination with possession, as well as the knack for giving nice short heads-up passes.

"Well thank you (for noticing)," she said with a big grin and short laugh. "Because that's what we've really been working on."

Wilmington got on the scoreboard first, less than ten minutes into the game actually from its own end. Lisa Rooker broke up a play on the right sideline deep inside the Wildcats zone. She sent a pass up the sideline to Kaitlin Souza, who shifted to her right and gave a pass ahead to Brittany McLaughlin. The ball was a little too far ahead of McLaughlin as it rolled almost out of bounds to the left of keeper Meghan Billings. McLaughlin was able to pull the ball back, but then the Tewksbury defender cleared the ball out. The ball then landed on the foot of Jensen, just outside the '18 yard box, and she uncorked a shot to the far left corner what turned out to be the game-winning goal.

Trailing 1-0, Tewksbury really couldn't muster any scoring chances. The team struggled especially in the midfield, and struggled turning the ball over. The ball had a hard time getting up to the forwards, thus Wilmington keeper Jackie Zarembo (3 saves) was able to enjoy an easy afternoon at the office.

"We played well but Wilmington deserved the win," said Tewksbury head coach Jack O'Brien. "They were more aggressive. Aggressiveness is usually our strength but (Wilmington) was first to the ball, they were good on their touches and they capitalized on their scoring chances. We played well at times but we weren't able to maintain that over the full 80 minutes. I thought in all three phases (of the game) we came out quickly in the first five to ten minutes, and then the momentum shifted."

"We had a couple of opportunities but we just couldn't put the ball in. We're struggling offensively. Right now we're trying to improve on that - trying to get the midfielders to have possession and move the ball up to the forwards so they can score. So we'll back at work tomorrow. We're concerned with the lack of scoring but the girls have put in a great effort. They are working hard at practice and the captains are doing a great job of keeping everyone positive. We're 3-5-1, so we're right in the middle of things."

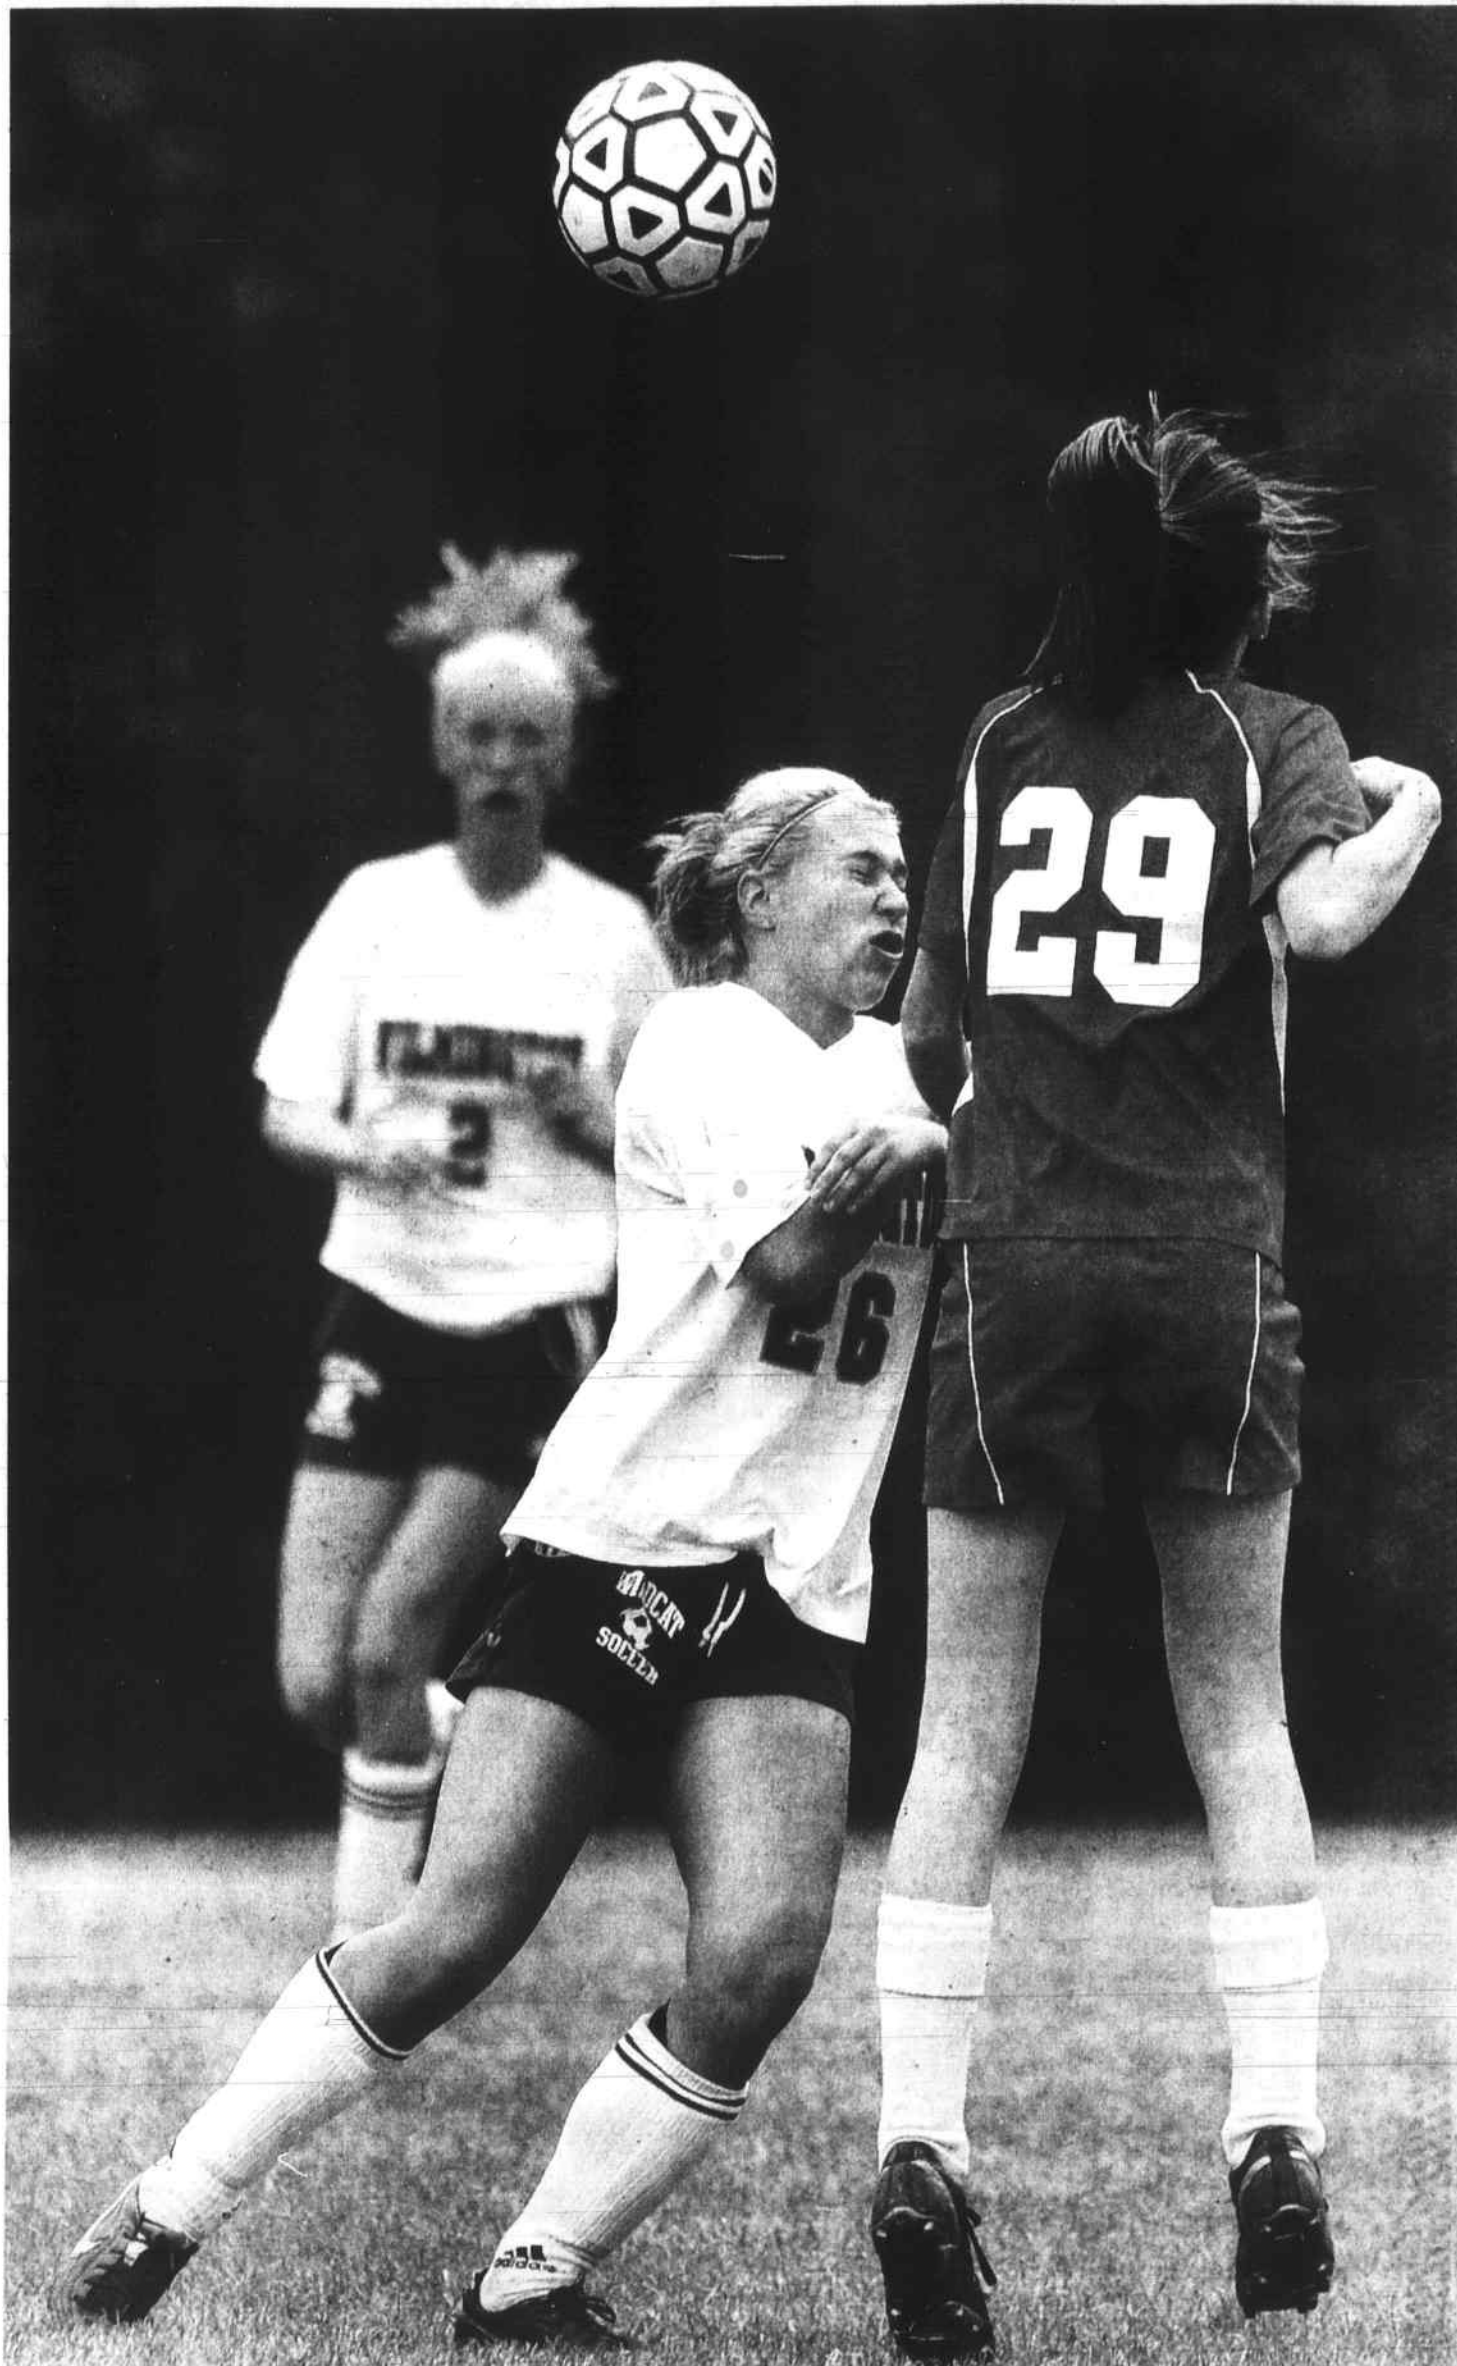

Wilmington had multiple chances to increase its lead but Billings was up to the challenge. The senior keeper ended up making 11 saves, including robbing Julie Braid with a great hand save, and following that up with a kick save off the foot of Lauren Nasiff both coming in the first half.

"I thought (Billings) really kept them in the game," said Hendee. "She's a very good goalie and I know she's been playing really well for them."

Wilmington did find a way to get another goal. Jensen took a corner kick to the left of Billings. The ball went to the near post, bounced around a bit, before Benson got a foot on it and found the back of the net making it 2-0. The score remained that way even though Wilmington put six more shots on net, all stopped by Billings, including two off her legs coming from a strong opportunity from McLaughlin.

The Wildcats played without a number of players, including all-league defender Danielle Polcari, as well as tri-captain Nicole Bockus.

"We're slowly but surely trying to come back from our injuries," said Hendee. "Hopefully we'll be back up to speed very quickly (and have everyone back). Nicole (Bockus) hurt her knee. Danielle (Polcari) has been working her way back. Liz Chin played some today as she's trying to come back, and Rachel (Grabar) could get cleared (to play soon)."

Former WHS Cheerleader recognized in magazine

Winn among the best in the entire country

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Brittani Winn has been a cheerleader long enough to know that she is very good at what she does, but the former Wilmington High cheerleading captain and Wilmington Pop Warner cheerleader did not realize just how great others think she is until she was recently honored as one of the top cheerleaders in the entire country.

Winn was recently named to American Cheerleader Magazine's 2008 Dream Team, an honor bestowed on only 10 cheerleaders per year, and is voted on by readers of the magazine. Winn was nominated for the award by judge and others around the country that have enjoyed her performances while as a member the East Elite All-Stars from the East Elite Cheer Gym in Tewksbury.

"It's an awesome honor, partly because I do not know the people who nominated me, so it is great to know I am being noticed by others," Winn said. "And at first when I found out about it, I figured there must be 50 or so cheerleaders named to the team, so when I found out there were only 10 it was an even greater honor."

Brittani and her East Elite team compete in about 10 national cheer events during the course of the year, most of them in the New England area, but one of her most recent events was her and her team's most memorable so far, as they took second place in the Senior Level 5 Division in the NCA Chic-Fil-A Nationals in Dallas, Texas, setting a team best for highest finish in a national competition.

"It was the first time we ever finished second, and it means that we were the second best in the country at our level, which is the highest level in the competition," Winn said.

There were 25 different teams at the Senior Level 5, and Winn and her teammates knew they had done very well, which is why they were somewhat surprised with the initial results that placed them at fourth place overall.

Despite their initial disappointment, they maintained their composure and good sportsmanship, and just moments later were rewarded with the great news of how well they had really done.

"When we found out we were fourth we had to be good sports about it, but we felt like we had done better than that," Winn said. "A few minutes later though, our coach called my cell phone and said for us to meet him, and he told us we had actually finished second. They had taken a deduction from us that they should not have."

While the delayed correction certainly took a little away from the moment - there was never an official announcement or recognition of the mistake to the audience - it could not take away from what Brittani and her team had accomplished. Making it even more special was that she got to share the honor with her friends at East Elite where she has been a member since she was eight years old.

"There are amazing people there and we have developed such a bond together," Winn said. "Everyone just wants to keep getting better and better, and they are all willing to put in the time and the hard work it takes to get better, so it was great to do so well with the team."

And Winn wants to make it clear that what she and her fellow cheerleaders do is in fact, hard work. The precision and grace that appears on the sidelines at a Friday night high school football or basketball game an NFL sideline on a Sunday afternoon did not come to look that way overnight. Countless hours of hard work went in to making it look just right.

"It is so hard on your body. People underestimate how much a pounding there is on your body," Winn said. "If you are doing a throw and you are the flyer you have your life in the hands of the people catching you. And if you are on the bottom there is a lot of weight landing on you. There are a lot of injuries in cheerleading. People don't realize the hard work that goes into it."

And Winn certainly knows a thing or two about being on the sideline cheering on her favorite team, having just graduated from Wilmington High this past May after cheering for both the football and basketball teams. It is an experience she will never forget, and she looks back fondly on her days as a Wildcat cheerleader.

"It was a great experience. It got me close to people in the town," Winn said. "I loved the Friday night football games, and the football dinners, and I loved all of the girls I cheered with. I am very lucky to be at East Elite because I love cheering with them, but I definitely miss the football games."

Winn has decided to put off college, where she was offered cheering scholarships at several schools, for one year, and is attending junior college for a year to take advantage of her final year of All-Star eligibility in hopes of winning this year's national championship in Dallas. But in the Fall, she hopes to attend the University of Louisville where she will look to continue her cheering career.

The transition from East Elite to college may be even more difficult than leaving behind her great friends and cheering partners from high school.

"It will be hard, but East Elite prepares you for that, and for your transition to college," Winn said. "My coaches Steve Belanger and Katie Rose are the most amazing people and have been great in helping me prepare."

Also, amazing for Winn in her cheering success have been her parents, Scott and Denise, who have provided tremendous support and guidance to help her succeed both on the classroom and as a cheerleader.

"My parents (Scott and Denise) have been great," Winn said. "They always told me that if I want to go to cheering I have to have all my homework done first and make good grades in school. They always have wanted what's best for me and supported me but they have never pushed me. They have been my number one fans."

Wilmington upends Tewksbury in non-league match

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Tuesday afternoon's match-up was between two teams that really needed two points to help turn the early season around. Wilmington came into the game with a record of 1-4-2, including giving up 20 goals in seven games. Tewksbury came into the game with a 3-4-1 mark, which includes scoring just one goal in their previous six games.

The Wildcats all but dominated this non-league game, scoring a goal in each half, while really controlling the possession, the tempo and the offensive chances throughout the 80 minutes.

Charlotte Jensen and Stephanie Benson scored the two goals, leading the Wilmington High girls' soccer team past the Redmen, 2-0, played at the Shawsheen Elementary School.

Wilmington has struggled for consistency throughout this season, whether it's playing as a team, finishing its chances or playing sound defense. But on Tuesday, the Wildcats played as a team from start to finish. Wilmington utilized its strengths, with smart short passes, solid one-touch give-and-gos, not to mention restarts, which really gave Tewksbury a lot of problems.

"Yeah it was a real good team effort win," said Wildcat head coach Sue Hendee. "We've been really trying to emphasize that lately. I think that was Steph Benson's best game so far, and Alexa (Brown) has really stepped up since Rachel (Grabar) got hurt, and (Alexa) has gotten much more action and has played very well. Ally Robbins is another one who played really well."

Hendee was asked about the improvement with her team's domination with possession, as well as the knack for giving nice-short heads-up passes.

"Well thank you (for noticing)," she said with a big grin and short laugh. "Because that's what we've really been working on."

Wilmington got on the scoreboard first, less than ten minutes into the game actually from its own end. Lisa Rooker broke up a play on the right sideline deep inside the Wildcats zone. She sent a pass up the sideline to Kaitlin Souza, who shifted to her right and gave a pass ahead to Brittany McLaughlin. The ball was a little too far ahead of McLaughlin as it rolled almost out of bounds to the left of keeper Meghan Billings. McLaughlin was able to pull the ball back, but then the Tewksbury defender cleared the ball out. The ball then landed on the foot of Jensen, just outside the '18 yard box, and she corked a shot to the far left corner what turned out to be the game-winning goal.

Trailing 1-0, Tewksbury really couldn't muster any scoring chances. The team struggled especially in the midfield, and

struggled turning the ball over. The ball had a hard time getting up to the forwards, thus Wilmington keeper Jackie Zarembo (3 saves) was able to enjoy an easy afternoon at the office.

"We played well but Wilmington deserved the win," said Tewksbury head coach Jack O'Brien. "They were more aggressive. Aggressiveness is usually our strength but (Wilmington) was first to the ball, they were good on their touches and they capitalized on their scoring chances. We played well at times but we weren't able to maintain that over the full 80 minutes. I thought in all three phases (of the game) we came out quickly in the first five to ten minutes, and then the momentum shifted."

"We had a couple of opportunities but we just couldn't put the ball in. We're struggling offensively. Right now we're trying to improve on that - trying to get the midfielders to have possession and move the ball up to the forwards so they can score. So we'll be back at work tomorrow. We're concerned with the lack of scoring but the girls have put in a great effort. They are working hard at practice and the captains are doing a great job of keeping everyone positive. We're 3-5-1, so we're right in the middle of things."

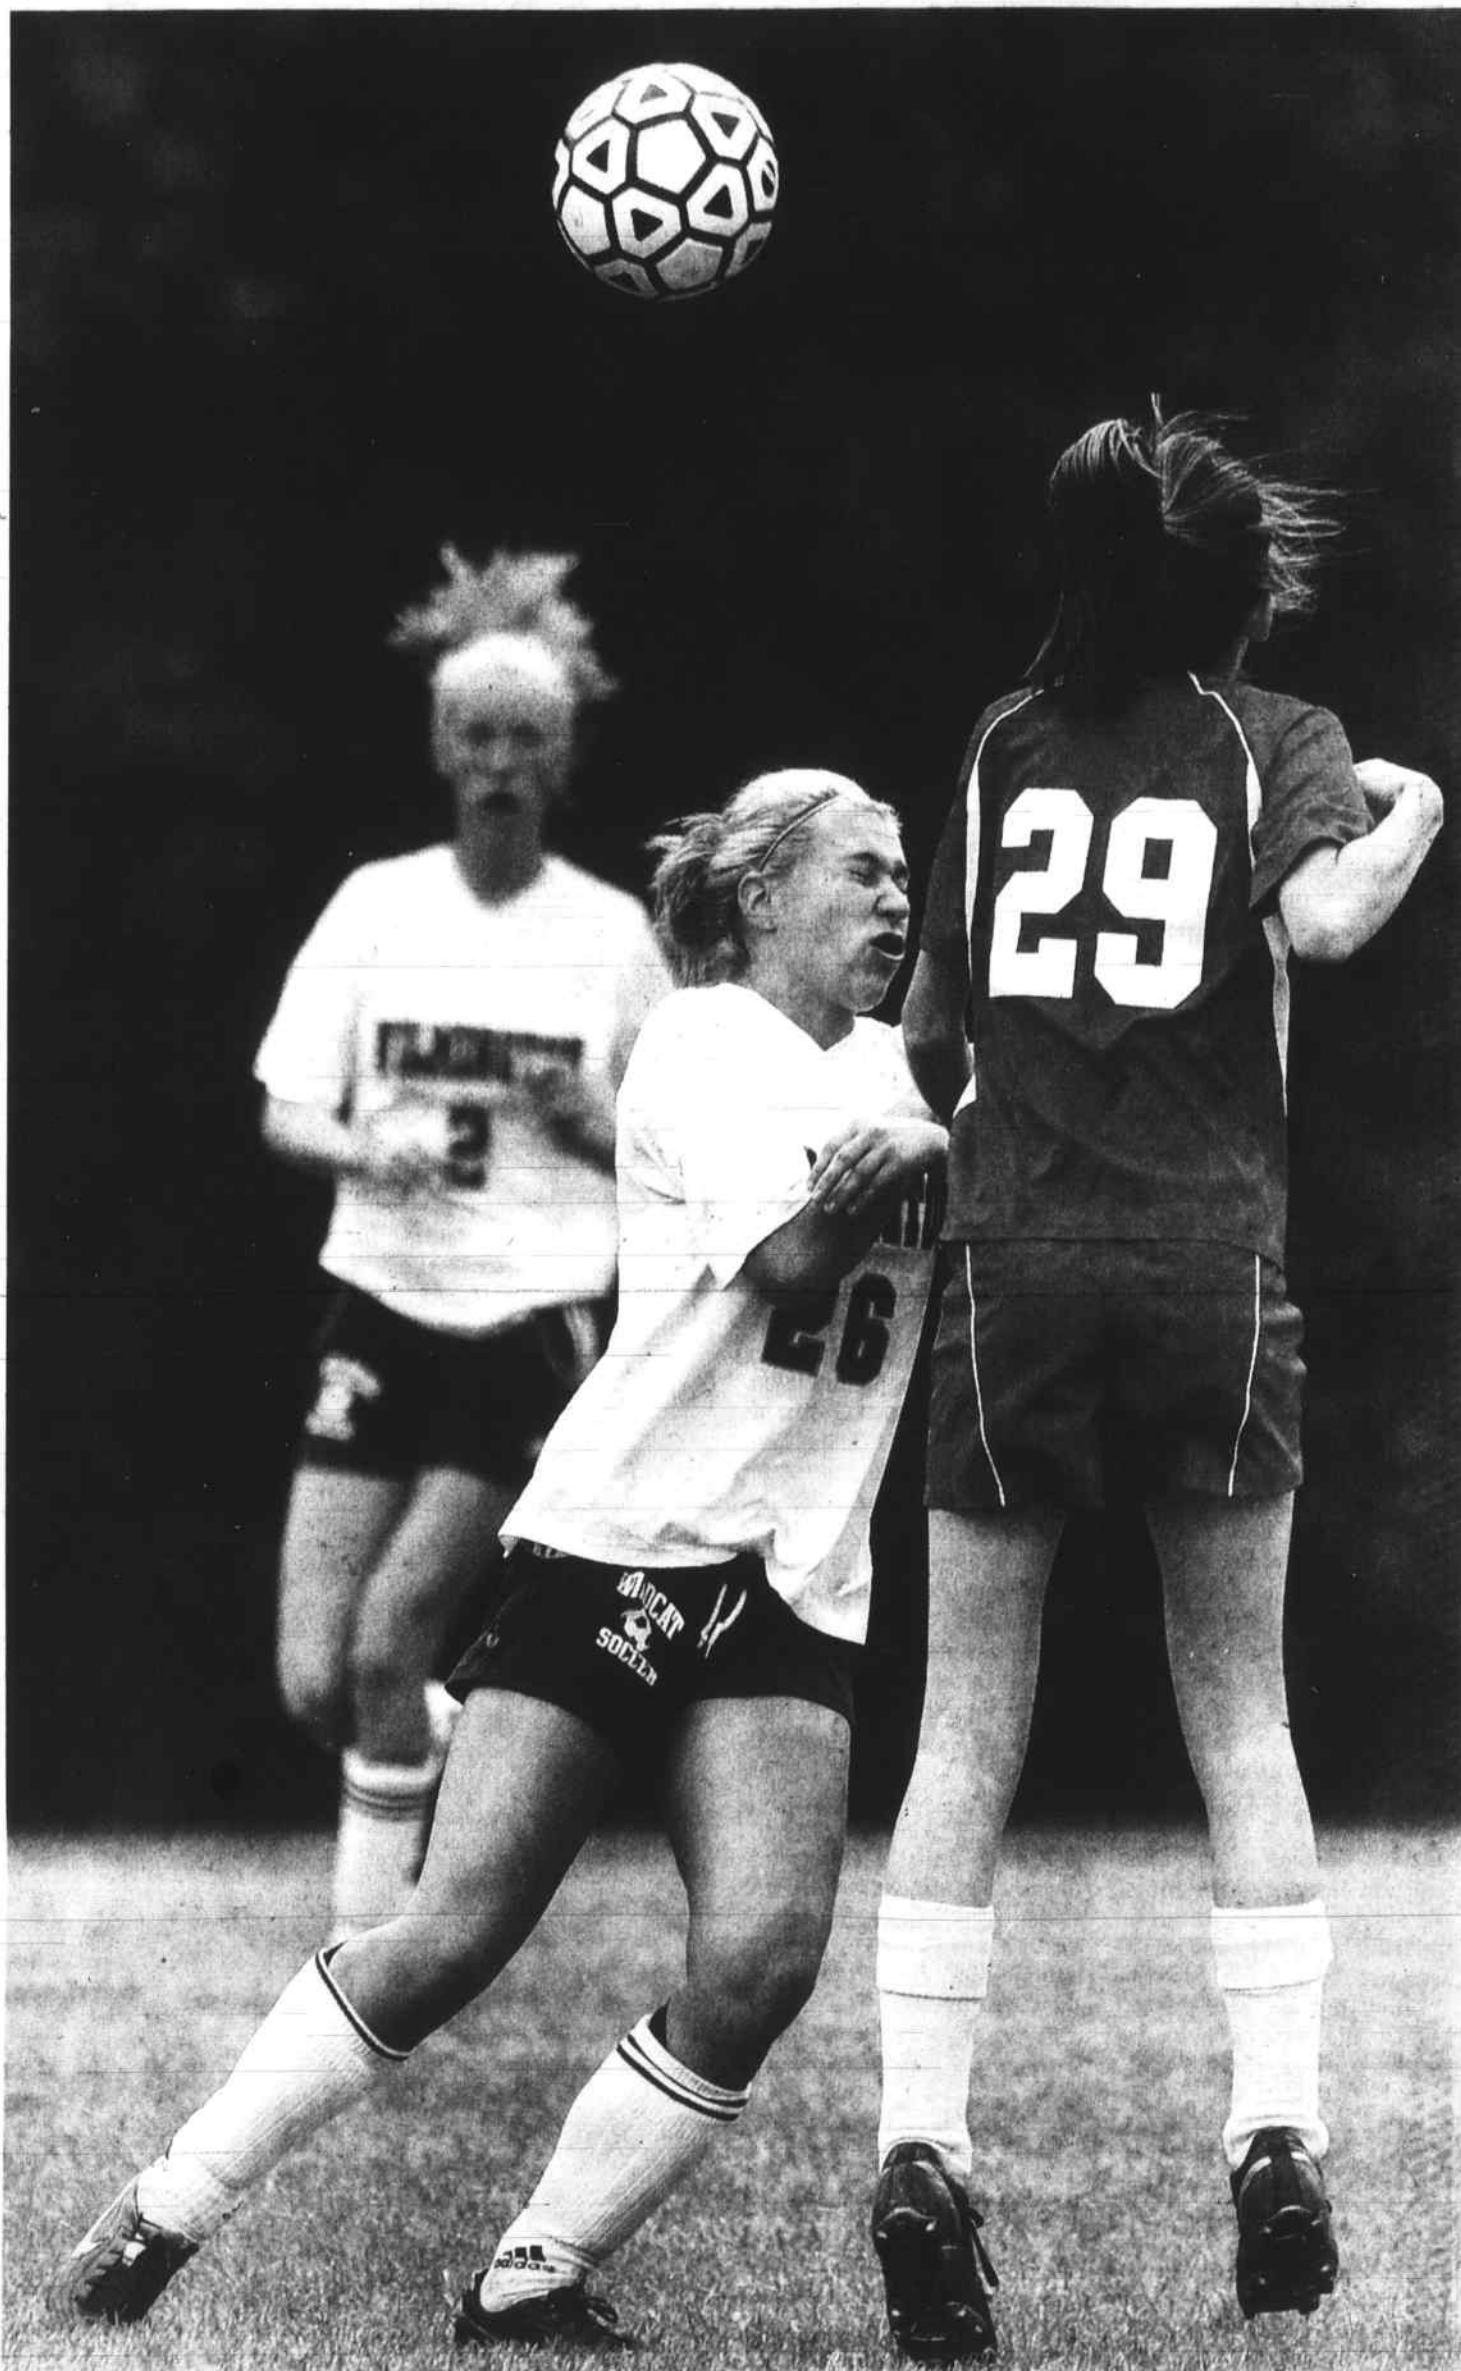

Wilmington had multiple chances to increase its lead but Billings was up to the challenge. The senior keeper ended up making 11 saves, including robbing Julie Braid with a great hand save, and following that up with a kick save off the foot of Lauren Nasiff both coming in the first half.

"I thought (Billings) really kept them in the game," said Hendee. "She's a very good goalie and I know she's been playing really well for them."

Wilmington did find a way to get another goal. Jensen took a corner kick to the left of Billings. The ball went to the near post, bounced around a bit, before Benson got a foot on it and found the back of the net making it 2-0. The score remained that way even though Wilmington put six more shots on net, all stopped by Billings, including two off her legs coming from a strong opportunity from McLaughlin.

The Wildcats played without a number of players, including all-league defender Danielle Polcari, as well as tri-captain Nicole Bockus.

"We're slowly but surely trying to come back from our injuries," said Hendee. "Hopefully we'll be back up to speed very quickly (and have everyone back). Nicole (Bockus) hurt her knee. Danielle (Polcari) has been working her way back. Liz Chin played some today as she's trying to come back, and Rachel (Grabar) could get cleared (to play soon)."

Winn among the best in the entire country

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Brittani Winn has been a cheerleader long enough to know that she is very good at what she does, but the former Wilmington High cheerleading captain and Wilmington Pop Warner cheerleader did not realize just how great others think she is until she was recently honored as one of the top cheerleaders in the entire country.

Winn was recently named to American Cheerleader Magazine's 2008 Dream Team, an honor bestowed on only 10 cheerleaders per year, and is voted on by readers of the magazine. Winn was nominated for the award by judge and others around the country that have enjoyed her performances while as a member the East Elite All-Stars from the East Elite Cheer Gym in Tewksbury.

"It's an awesome honor, partly because I do not know the people who nominated me, so it is great to know I am being noticed by others," Winn said. "And at first when I found out about it, I figured there must be 50 or so cheerleaders named to the team, so when I found out there were only 10 it was an even greater honor."

Brittani and her East Elite team compete in about 10 national cheer events during the course of the year, most of them in the New England area, but one of her most recent events was her and her team's most memorable so far, as they took second place in the Senior Level 5 Division in the NCA Chic-Fil-A Nationals in Dallas, Texas, setting a team best for highest finish in a national competition.

"It was the first time we ever finished second, and it means that we were the second best in the country at our level, which is the highest level in the competition," Winn said.

There were 25 different teams at the Senior Level 5, and Winn and her teammates knew they had done very well, which is why they were somewhat surprised with the initial results that placed them at fourth place overall.

Despite their initial disappointment, they maintained their composure and good sportsmanship, and just moments later were rewarded with the great news of how well they had really done.

"When we found out we were fourth we had to be good sports about it, but we felt like we had done better than that," Winn said. "A few minutes later though, our coach called my cell phone and said for us to meet him, and he told us we had actually finished second. They had taken a deduction from us that they should not have."

While the delayed correction certainly took a little away from the moment - there was never an official announcement or recognition of the mistake to the audience - it could not take away from what Brittani and her team had accomplished. Making it even more special was that she got to share the honor with her friends at East Elite where she has been a member since she was eight years old.

"There are amazing people there and we have developed such a bond together," Winn said. "Everyone just wants to keep getting better and better, and they are all willing to put in the time and the hard work it takes to get better, so it was great to do so well with the team."

And Winn wants to make it clear that what she and her fellow cheerleaders do is in fact, hard work. The precision and grace that appears on the sidelines at a Friday night high school football or basketball game an NFL sideline on a Sunday afternoon did not come to look that way overnight. Countless hours of hard work went in to making it look just right.

"It is so hard on your body. People underestimate how much a pounding there is on your body," Winn said. "If you are doing a throw and you are the flyer you have your life in the

Son to run on behalf of his father, and the Leukemia Society

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

Erik Engdahl, a former Wilmington resident (class of 1992) will be taking over in his dad's role in fundraising for The Leukemia and Lymphoma Society's Team in Training in honor of people running the PF Chang Rock and Roll Marathon to be held on January 18, 2009.

His father, Wilmington resident John Engdahl, a leukemia survivor, first got involved in The Leukemia and Lymphoma Society by raising money for the Team in Training program in 1993, a year after his own successful battle with Acute Myelogenous Leukemia.

"Turning 50 might be traumatic for some people," said Engdahl on his fundraising web-site. "But John Engdahl of Wilmington decided to use this milestone to try something new and different, like running the Boston Marathon."

He went on to run in the Boston Marathon eight times, raising between $80,000 to $100,000 for The Leukemia and Lymphoma Society after battling cancer.

"John was also helped by people he didn't know and would never meet," quoted Engdahl on his fundraising page. "Because the chemo compromised his immune system and depleted his platelets, John received 'a lot of blood. The transfusions kept him going until Christmas, when he received an autologous bone marrow transplant."

"The chemotherapy and transplant were successful. John emerged from the hospital on January 2, 1992 and has been cancer-free ever since."

John was later nominated by the Olympic Committee in 1996 to carry the Olympic torch in Boston for the formally known Games of the XXVI in Atlanta Georgia. He did just that when it came to came to the city of Boston.

Next came his recognition by the Boston Celtics for "Hero Among Us," an initiative started in 1997 by the Boston Celtics. It honors individuals who have made an overwhelming impact on the lives of others.

Engdahl asks anyone to join him in honoring his father and other individuals affected by these terrible diseases.

"We need your support to cross the ultimate finish line - a cure," said Engdahl on his fundraising page. "If possible, please send your 100% tax-deductible donation by December 5th so I can monitor my fundraising efforts. I will, however, continue to accept donations until the day of the race. Thank you so much for your support and generosity."

To donate, please visit John's web site at ://pages.teamintraining.org/dm/pfchangs09/eengdahl.

WHS Sports Round-Up

Pereira nets five goals in two games

By JAMIE POTE & MIKE IPPOLITO

The Wilmington High School boys' soccer team defeated North Reading in back-to-back 4-0 games this past week. Last Wednesday, the Wildcats won at North Reading in a Cape Ann League game, before the teams met again on Monday afternoon at the North Intermediate with the Wildcats winning again, but the second round game was a non-league contest.

In the first meeting, senior captain Jason Pereira led the offense with three goals. His first goal came off a corner kick from Jon Spurr, before he put home his second goal of the game on his own rebound. Three minutes later, Andrew Owens gave Pereira a terrific through pass, and Pereira tucked the ball into the corner making it 3-0. Liam Gately set up Ryan Kennedy, who deposited the team's fourth goal of the afternoon.

Head coach Steve Scanlon used three different keepers in the game. Marty Bamberg played the first 60 minutes and made one save. Junior Mathews Jorge, an exchange student from Brazil, played the next ten minutes and made one save. Then John Malone finished the final ten minutes and he too made one stop.

On Monday, the teams met again and Scanlon as concerned heading into the match-up.

"That's a difficult spot to be put into," he said. "To play a team back-to-back like that doesn't happen that much in soccer. So I was worried that the kids being ready to go because we beat them so handily (last Wednesday). But we got off to a good start and the kids handled it very well."

Pereira kept up his scoring frenzy by adding two more goals, the team's third and fourth of the games. Those came after Owens, and fellow sophomore Nick Godzyk scored the first two.

With the two wins, the Wildcats are now 5-1-1 overall, which includes outscoring their opponents, 17-6. All of this coming after being co-champions of the Cape Ann League last fall, and losing a lot of talent from that team.

Is Scanlon surprised with the hot start?

"A little bit," he answered. "I thought all along that the potential was there. Defensively we have been very good - all of the backs have played very well and Marty (Bamberg) has been great in the net. I think the young sophomores have matured quickly - Owens, Godzyk and (Chris) DiCecca have all scored a few goals and getting points from all of them has been very big. I think the depth has really helped us. There's times when I can put in six or seven guys at a time and not really lose much. I think we're a more balanced team than last year. Last year I think we were more potent, but it wasn't quite as spread out as we are now."

Wilmington is home for its next three games including a big match with Hamilton-Wenham (5-2-0) on Thursday, followed by Triton Regional (3-1-3) on Monday and Lynnfield (3-3-2) on Wednesday.

"I think the Hamilton-Wenham game will be a big test for us," said Scanlon. "It'll be a good measuring stick to see where we are at this point. They have some speed and some skill from the goalie all the way out. And we've always had good games with them."

WHS Golf

The Wilmington High golf team picked up their third win of the season last Thursday afternoon with an impressive 144-120 win over North Reading at Hillview Country Club. At the time, the win improved the Wildcats record on the season to 3-4, and while a tough loss on Monday to CAL power Masconomet dropped them down to 3-5, their Wildcats have now tripled last season's win total when they managed only one victory all season long.

The North Reading win was also the second in a row for the Wildcats who had defeated Ipswich last Tuesday afternoon 129-122.

Junior Aubrey Ungvarsky led the way for the Wildcats, shooting a 31 to lead all scorers, while senior captain Mike Chiracosta added 27 points. Sophomore Andrew Spurr pitched in 24 points for the Wildcats while junior Nick Bouteris added 23.

"It was another well balanced victory for us, much like the Ipswich win" Wilmington coach Steve Lynch said. "Aubrey played very well for us as did Mike and we got a lot of other good performances as well."

Among those who played well for the Wildcats were number seven player, freshman John Keough with 19 points and junior Josh Townsend at number eight with 20 points. Staffier was pleased to see his team get strong efforts from the bottom of his lineup.

"That is the mind set I have been trying to get into players minds," Lynch said. "The Ipswich match and this one are both good examples. Against Ipswich, our number two player did not get enough points to count, and in this one our five and six players did not get enough points, but the bottom of our lineup came through for us."

With a 3-5 record to this point and with Rockport, whom the Wildcats beat for their only victory last season, next on the schedule, the Wildcats look like they could make a large improvement over last season, and it also appears that better days still lie ahead.

"I feel good about the team right now. I think we've matched up really well with a lot of teams this season," Lynch said. "It is also a young team and we lose only senior off of the team going into next year so I think the future is certainly brighter and the kids are getting a lot of valuable experience this year."

After the Wildcats travel to Rockport on Wednesday they will close their season with matches against three very talented teams in North Andover, Hamilton-Wenham and Triton Regional. Lynch knows that it could be a bumpy ride down the stretch, but he is confident that regardless of the results, his team will continue to improve.

"It is a tough end to the schedule," Lynch said. We would love to pick up a win against Rockport and see what happens from there. We are making positive strides and what makes it even better is that this is a good group of people that we have on this team. It makes my job a lot easier having kids like this on the team."

WHS Volleyball

The Wilmington High volleyball team suffered a pair of 3-0 road losses this past week to North Reading and Lexington, by remarkably similar scores, but the matches were actually had much less in common than the scores would indicate.

Last Friday afternoon, the Wildcats traveled North Reading, one of the top teams in the Cape Ann League and despite their 3-0 loss, they gave a tremendous effort before falling by scores of 25-20, 25-19, 25-23.

Wilmington coach Mark Staffier was very pleased with his team's effort in the loss to such a talented foe.

"I was proud of them," Staffier said. "We obviously would have liked to come out of there with a win, but we weren't able to do it. North Reading has not even lost a game in any match since the opening match of the season, so I thought we played very well against them."

Staffier has pointed all season to the Wildcats need to play together as a cohesive unit. I they plan on being successful, and this match offered a great example of the team following through with that, but Staffier also thought their was another aspect to the great effort.

"I thought their teamwork was very good, but I also thought they posed a challenge to themselves to take on North Reading," Staffier said. "I think they were a little more motivated to see what they could do against them."

Staffier felt the entire team played very well in the loss, but he was particularly impressed with senior captain Theresa McMahon, an outside hitter for the Wildcats.

"Theresa had a great game," Staffier said. "She played very well defensively. It was probably her best all around game this season."

As pleased as Staffier was with his team after Friday's loss, he was equally disappointed in the loss to Lexington on Monday. The Wildcats fell by scores of 25-20, 25-19, 25-22, but the closeness of the games only served to underscore even more how things could have gone for the Wildcats with a better performance.

"Lexington is a good team, but they are not as good as North Reading," Staffier said. "It seemed like we didn't get off the bus until the third game. I don't know if we did not think they would be very good or what, but we seemed a little unmotivated."

While the scores in this match were nearly identical to the North Reading match, Staffier and his squad could not take as much satisfaction in just staying close in this one.

"The close games are part of the aggravation part of it because I think if we had played as well in this one as we did against North Reading we could have won 3-0 instead of losing 3-0," Staffier said.

The two losses dropped the Wildcats record on the season to 2-7, and they will resume their season on Wednesday afternoon at home against CAL power in Lynnfield before traveling to new CAL entrant Winchester on Thursday.

WHS Field Hockey

The Wilmington High School Field Hockey team dropped its latest two games this past week, first falling to the very powerful Manchester-Essex team, 4-0, last Wednesday which was followed by a 2-1 loss to Georgetown on Thursday.

Wilmington is now 1-8 on the season.

First-year head coach Jodi MacKenzie said that she's happy with the effort, but is looking for more consistency with the overall play especially after starting off slow and turning it on too late against Georgetown.

"We have had a few games like this," she said. "The girls just don't know how to start the game strong. They are good players, but just can't seem to fight hard and want it in the first half."

Wilmington took a 1-0 lead early in the first half as Kerry Hanifin scored an unassisted goal. That was the Wildcats' second goal of the season.

Georgetown tied the game in the eighth minute of the second half, and then shortly thereafter the Royals added another one to go up 2-1 and the score remained that way despite a valiant effort by the Wildcats.

"The last 15 minutes of the game was pretty intense," said MacKenzie. "The girls finally seemed to get their heads into it. They played fantastic at that point. If they played like that the entire game, they would have had a win."

MacKenzie was thrilled with the performance received by junior Liz Crannell.

"She's a fighter," said MacKenzie. "Whether we are playing a game or we're at practice, she has heart. I have had her in the back field helping to protect the goal, however, after (Thursday's) game, I'm thinking about pushing her up (to forward) for good. She's a fantastic player. Luckily she is only a junior and I have her for one more year."

Wilmington is very busy in the next eight days with four

Cape Ann League games. On Wednesday, the Wildcats faced North Reading (0-6-2) with results not known as of press time. On Tuesday night, the 'Cats will host Lynnfield (6-1-1) for a 6:00 pm contest. Then next week, the 'Cats stay at home with Rockport (3-5-2) on Monday and Hamilton-Wenham (2-4-1) on Wednesday, with both games slated to begin at 3:45 pm.

WHS Cross Country

The Wilmington High School boys cross country team dropped two more meets this past week, falling to Hamilton-Wenham, 18-45 and Lynnfield, 23-38. The Wildcats are now 0-6 on the season.

Wilmington was led by Tom Valente, who finished third overall with a time of 16:30 for 2.9 miles.

"Tom ran a very strong race," said head coach Tom Bradley. "It was a dash to the finish and he literally lost by a second."

Zack Sears finished second for Wilmington at 17:48, followed by Jeff Kannally, Cole Carter and Jimmy DiNuccio, who rounded out the top five, followed by Andrew LaRosa and Sean Keane.

"Jeff (Kannally) was the big surprise for us," said Bradley. "This was his best effort of the season so far."

Wilmington was without Cole Peffer, who was injured by Bradley expects him back for this week's meet.

The Wildcat girls split in their tri-meet, losing to the powerful Hamilton-Wenham Generals, 17-44, and defeating Lynnfield, 18-44.

Ali Lyman ran a terrific race and was first for Wilmington coming across at 19:39. "That was her best race of the season," said Bradley.

Natalie Russo was second for Wilmington coming across at 19:56, followed by Sy Russo, Nikki Sirignano, Jessica Burke, Courtney Collins, Cali Peffer, with Kristi Adley, Lori Fletcher and Stephanie Woods behind them, all running very well.

Both the boys and the girls team will host North Reading on Thursday, before traveling to Amesbury on Tuesday.

Stewart and Moriarty rush for 100 yards each

Ground game leads Wildcats past Minutemen

By JAMIE POTE Sports Editor

Standing on the Shawsheen Tech Field a week ago Saturday, Wilmington High first-year head football coach Mike Barry was asked what he knew about his next opponent, Lexington. He smiled and replied, "I know they have some skill but besides that, I really don't know much about them."

After exchanging videotapes with the Lexington coaches, Barry and his staff went to work this past week to prepare for the team's third straight non-league opponent. That week of preparation seemed to have been a factor as Wilmington dominated play from start to finish, as they walked off the very muddy and ripped up Alumni Stadium field with a 21-7 victory over the Minutemen, played on Sunday afternoon after Friday night's postponement.

"The only thing I did know is that they have skill," said Barry. "We exchanged tapes with them during the week, we watched it and studied what they did. We don't really change a lot of things from week to week. We tell the kids where they are suppose to be, where they are suppose to line up, and you just hope they play hard. We got Wilmington kids here so that's what you know you're going to get, so that's really all we did (to prepare for this game)."

Barry really downplayed the team's preparation, but truthfully Lexington couldn't crack anything the Wildcats threw at them. Just like a week ago against Shawsheen, Wilmington's offensive and defensive lines dominated. The offensive line helped senior quarterback Steven Stewart rush for 116 yards and score two touchdowns, as well as sophomore Kevin Moriarty rush for 100-plus yards for the second straight game. He ended with 104 yards and a score, as Wilmington chalked up 280 total yards of offense, with 261 coming on the ground.

"This is a super win," said Barry. "We told (the kids) it would be a hard (game) and it certainly was. In the first half we tried to mix in the run and the pass because we really didn't know what the weather would do. (Stewart) hit some guys early (with passes) and that softens things up, and then our offensive line got on a roll and the young kid (Moriarty) was great. We like the down hill runners. He got down hill today. That's what we told him to do, and to protect the ball."

Wilmington got the momentum shifted into its corner right away. The Wildcats received the opening kick-off and put together a 10-play, 83-yard drive. Stewart connected on three short passes which helped spread out the Lexington defense, which in turn allowed Stewart, Moriarty and Anthony Nihan (10 carries, 43 very tough yards) to combine for 56 rushing yards, topped off by Stewart's 22-yard

"That was huge (to score on the opening drive)," said Barry. "We said right away that we were going to go right at them. We really didn't know what they were going to do on defense because they were defending all types of different offenses when we saw them on film. Once we saw that they were playing a little soft, we figured we could hit on a few of the short (passes) and then try to get Stew and the other running backs going."

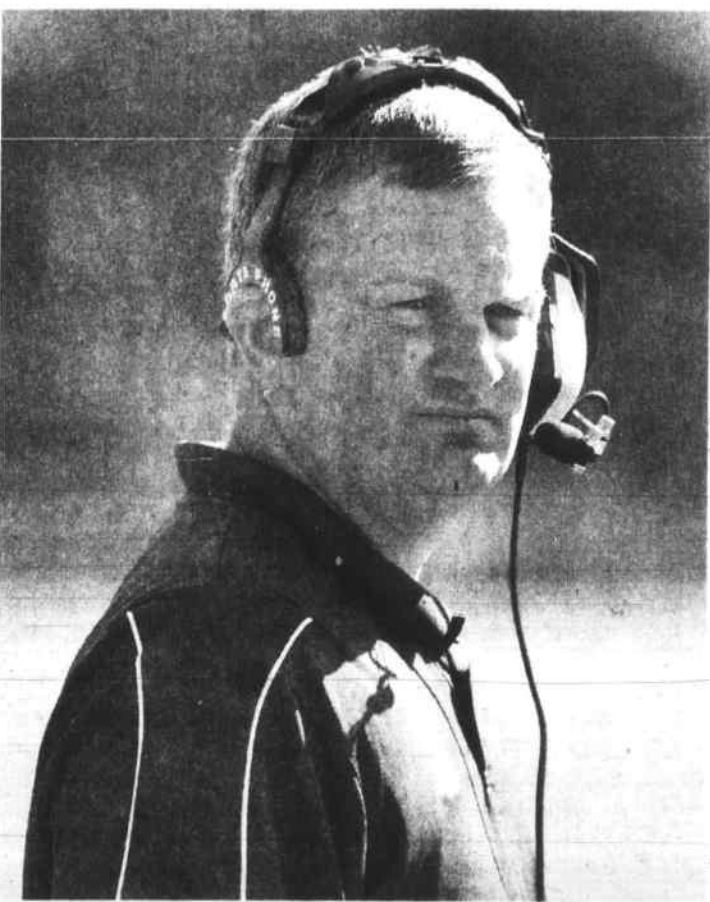

The score remained 6-0 but Wilmington had two golden chances to score before the first half closed. The Wildcats turned the ball over after an incomplete pass on fourth-and-five from the Lexington 26. Three plays later, Nihan picked up a fumble near the right sideline, and darted up the field before being tackled around the one or two yard line. Wilmington now had the ball with 14 seconds left, but Stewart threw his first interception of the season, with the ball being run back to the Lexington 25. Lexington then ran the clock out, and at that time, you could see Barry arguing with the referee, assuming he thought Nihan crossed the goal-line on the previous play, and Stewart was throwing for the two-point conversion. When asked if that was the case, Barry declined to comment. Wilmington did take advantage of its scoring opportunities in the second half. Stewart scored his second touchdown of the game on a 23-yard QB roll-out, this time going to his left. His pass was completed to Nihan for the two-point conversion making it 14-0 with 40:02 left in the third quarter.

Lexington came right back and cut the deficit in half. Rotating quarterbacks in-and-out, back-up Myles Adley threw a pass on first-and-ten from the Wildcat 19 yard line that got tipped by Wilmington's Ryan Searles before landing right into the arms of John Moscatel in the end zone for the score. The PAT kick was good and the 'Cats had a 14-7 lead with 1:39 left in the third quarter.

Wilmington then put the game away holding the ball for over ten minutes the rest of the way, including two long drives. The first drive went 10-plays and 58-yards and was finished by Moriarty's two-yard run and Stewart's PAT kick making it a two-touchdown game at 21-7. The second series started on the Wildcats 37-yard line with 4:49 to go, and after three first downs, Moriarty went seven yards on the last carry of the game giving him 104 on the day on 22 carries helping Wilmington improve to 3-0 on the season.

"I'm not surprised (that we are 3-0) but it's still so early so you can't get too excited," said Barry, before talking about this Saturday's opponent, "Lynnfield is a different type of team. They spread you out, so it's a different style and that's the team we have to prepare for next."

Wilmington High School Football coach Mike Barry is off to a 3-0 start in his first-year behind the bench.

Saturday's game at Lynnfield's middle school has been moved to a 3:00 pm start. Even though Lynnfield plays in the Cape Ann League Small School Division, this game is a non-league match-up. The Pioneers are currently 1-3 on the season, beating Matignon, 28-0, and losing to Hamilton-Wenham (41-20), Georgetown (14-0) and Saugus (49-28).

"Due to space, WHS Football Box Score and updated stats will appear in next week's edition.

Shawsheen Tech Sports Round-Up

Rams girls soccer team falls for first time

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech girls soccer team suffered their first loss of the season on Tuesday afternoon, dropping a tough 3-0 decision to non-league rival North Reading in a road game. The loss dropped the Lady Rams record on the season to 7-1-1 overall, and it wrapped up a weeks where Shawsheen went 2-1, winning a pair of league games by a combined score of 13-0.

In the loss to North Reading, Shawsheen coach Doug Michaud was actually very pleased with the way his team played against a step up in competition, as well as with their approach to the game. Heading into the game, he had been a little concerned that his team might be intimidated by the larger school, but that was certainly not the case.

"When it came to the game they did not seem intimidated at all," Michaud said. "I was really happy to see that they did not doubt their abilities. Maybe it's because I have so many freshmen on the team and they don't know the difference, but whatever the reason it was good to see."

Beyond their mental approach to the game, Michaud also felt that his team matched up pretty well in the playing of the game as well.

"North Reading did control play most of the game, but we played pretty well with them," Michaud said. "We showed some glimpses that we can definitely play with a team at this level."

The Lady Rams previous game was a 4-0 shutout of CAC rival Lynn Tech that was not nearly as close as the score would indicate. Sophomore Alyssa Martucci of Tewksbury and senior Stef Warnick of Wilmington combined on the shutout in a game totally dominated by Shawsheen.

The freshman class had a big hand in this win for Shawsheen with Charlotte Ardini, Erin Plunkett and Amanda Vance all scoring goals for the Lady Rams. Vance's goal should come as no surprise as she has given Shawsheen a huge boost since being called up from the junior varsity a couple of weeks ago.

"She has just been great," Michaud said. "For whatever reason she did not show a lot in tryouts, but since she has been with the varsity she has been a producer in every game she has been in."

At the other end of the spectrum, senior Selena Houghton also added a goal for Shawsheen, her first varsity goal in her first year with the team.

"Selena is just a natural athlete," Michaud said. "She is missing some of the soccer ability because she has not played before, but she is a natural athlete and she gets the job done for us."

Last Thursday afternoon, Shawsheen took on PMA and the final score was a little more indicative of the Lady Rams domination, as they rolled to a 9-0 victory behind two goals and two assists from junior Jenn Carroll of Wilmington. Jenna Zechner added two goals, while Kim Barris, Erin Plunkett, Marissa Irwin, Charlotte Ardini and Sabrina Gomes added one goal apiece.

Alyssa Martucci went the distance in goal and picked up the shutout with six saves.

Boys Soccer

The Shawsheen boys soccer team was gearing up last week for a big matchup perennial CAC power Chelsea on Friday afternoon, but saw that wiped out by the bad weather so they had only game this week, on Tuesday afternoon at home against Fellowship.

The Rams, however, made the most of their only opportunity of the week, pounding Fellowship by a score of 8-1 to improve their record on the season to 4-0-2 overall.

Fellowship certainly did not offer the same level of competition that Chelsea would have, but they do have one great player in Brian Lundquist, the leading scorer in the CAC with 14 goals in just six games coming into the contest.

"Lundquist is about 6'2 and he runs like a gazelle," Barris said. "He is a very good player, so we knew the key for us would be to contain him. We covered him all over the field and did not allow him free reign so we were able to neutralize him."

Freshman Dan Serano and sophomore Mike DiGiorgio, both of Tewksbury were charged with containing the talented Lundquist and did a great job for the Rams.

"He did score their one goal, but it was not until there were about 20 minutes gone in the second half, and we were up 7-0" Barris said. "Dan and Mike did a tremendous job. They did just what they needed to do."

Leading the Rams offensively was Eric McLaughlin who had three goals, the first of which came on a corner kick early in the first half to give the Rams a 2-0 lead. Senior captain Andy Maga of Wilmington added a goal, as did Andrew Puccio, Phil Loranger, Wilmington's Mike O'Connell and freshman Nicco Riparo of Tewksbury.

"It wasn't the competition level we would have faced against Chelsea, but the kids played well which is always good to see, and now we will see what happens when we play Northeast on Thursday," Barris said.

No makeup date has been set yet for the Chelsea game, but the Rams will get their fair share of stiff competition in the coming weeks anyway. After hosting Northeast on Thursday, they will travel to Lynn Tech on Monday and will travel to Greater Lowell next Friday, facing three teams in direct competition for the top spot in the CAC Large.

"At this point, at 4-0-2, we are where I hoped we would be," Barris said. "We are in the mix in terms of the league. We will have a much better idea after we face Northeast, Greater Lowell and Lynn Tech."

Cross Country

Both the boys and girls cross country teams from Shawsheen continued their impressive starts to the season last Wednesday, as the boys swept a tri-meet to improve to 4-0 on the season, while the girls swept a quad meet to push their perfect record to 5-0 on the campaign.

The boys traveled to Essex Agricultural in Danvers where they swept past Essex Aggie by a score of 17-42, and Northeast Metro tech by a score of 21-34. The wins came despite the Rams having to run without one of their top runners in senior captain Travis Craigie, as several other Rams, including some from the freshman class, stepped up with great efforts.

Junior tri-captain Bjorn Hanson topped all finishers with a time of 18:08 over the 3.1 mile course, and after a Northeast runner took second place, the depth of the Rams once again came through, as they took spots three through five. Sophomore Anthony Finn was third in 19:33. Jeff Quilty, a senior from Tewksbury followed Finn in 19:48 senior tri-captain Kevin Mahoney was fifth overall in 19:55. Sophomore Ben Bourne of Tewksbury finished tenth overall and rounded out the Rams' top five in a time of 21:03.

The team of the present for the Rams seems very strong right now, and on Wednesday coach Tim Broadrick got a glimpse into the future as well, when three freshmen from Tewksbury all stepped up with strong races. Richard Silk, Keenan Goodwin and Chris Illsley finished 14th, 15th and 19th overall.

"These young men have never run before, and they've only been working out with the team for about a month," Broadrick said. "This is a great sign for them and for the future."

On the girls side, the Lady Rams swept past Essex Aggie and Northeast Metro Tech as well as PMA Methuen. Shawsheen downed two of the top teams in the league in Essex Aggie and PMA, as Essex Aggie took the CAC championship last season while PMA was the runner-up. The races were extremely close with Shawsheen pulling out a 29-30 win over PMA and 23-32 win over Essex Aggie, while all three schools scored a technical defeat of Northeast by a score of 15-50 because Northeast had only three runners.

"Last year our girls were just glad to get within a point of Essex Aggie, and they weren't even thinking about beating PMA," Broadrick said. "Then Essex Aggie overtook PMA for the league title. Whichever way you rank them, these have been the top two girls' programs in the CAC recently. I think (the Shawsheen girls) are as surprised as anybody today."

The Lady Rams are still without the services of juniors Kristina Zacchini and Molly Grzelcyk, but both should be back before the end of the season. Even without these two stars, however, the Lady Rams have plenty of talent and it certainly showed on Wednesday.

Shawsheen took the top three in the 3.1 mile race. Junior Alyssa Mooney of Tewksbury set a personal best, winning the race in 23:05, while tri-captain Abby Pinard of Tewksbury was second in 23:33.

The Lady Rams also got some great contributions from their freshman class, when newcomer Grace Brogan took third in 23:47. Sophomore Jessica Goodhue of Tewksbury was the finished fourth for Shawsheen and 16th overall in a time of 27:55, while freshman Johanne Legrand rounded out the Lady Rams' top five in a time of 28:05.

"Jess Goodhue has really stepped up the last couple of weeks to help the team stay competitive," Broadrick said.

Volleyball

The Shawsheen volleyball team added to their already impressive record with a key CAC victory on Tuesday afternoon, as they rolled past Whittier Tech by a 3-0 (25-17, 25-20 and 25-16) score. The win improved the Lady Rams record on the season to 8-2 overall (8-1 in the CAC).

Whittier came into the match with only one league loss, just like Shawsheen having dropped a decision to Greater Lawrence, but the Lady Rams were able to come away with a convincing win. Shawsheen coach Chet Flynn was very impressed with his team's play, but noted that the scores of the games did not tell the full story.

"The scores are not indicative of how close the match really was," Flynn said. "There were a lot of long volleys and we were also able to score a lot of service points which proved to be the difference."

Setter Kelli Jo Deardorff had 16 service points, including 4 aces, and added 11 assists, while outside hitter Tori Philbrook had 14 service points, 3 aces and 5 kills.

"Both Kelli and Tori went on service runs that were huge for us," Flynn said. "In the first game for example, Kelli scored points 10 through 17 and Tori scored 20 through 24. That's pretty much what happened throughout the match. We were just stronger serving than they were."

Flynn and his team knew going into the match that along with Greater Lawrence, Whittier is the team that provides their biggest obstacle towards taking the CAC crown, and Flynn was pleased with the way his team stepped up against the stronger competition.

"It was a challenge for us and we responded really well," Flynn said. "The kids just really rose to the occasion and handled the situation really well."

Rams Football team finally gets into the win column

WAKEFIELD - The Shawsheen Tech football team came into last Sunday's game at CAC Lower Division rival Northeast Metro Tech coming off two very difficult losses. After an opening week victory over Tri-County, the Rams had lost consecutive non-league games to Arlington Catholic and Wilmington High in blowout fashion. Making matters worse, the Rams had their CAC opener delayed by a day due to the predicted heavy rains on Saturday and had to wait an extra day to get the bad taste of those losses out of their mouths.

As it turned out, it was certainly the wait for the Rams as they rolled to 28-8 victory over the Golden Knights. The Upper Division Rams were never threatened by their Lower Division foes, leading from start to finish, with the final score not really indicating just how fully the Rams dominated the contest.

Shawsheen piled up 337 yards of total offense on the muddy rain soaked field, including 209 yards rushing and a pair of touchdowns by junior running back Cory Foss to even their record on the season at 2-2.

The Rams wasted little time in taking control of the game, with Cory Foss returning the opening kickoff 25 yards to the Ram 42 yard line and then going on an impressive six play, 58 yard drive to take an early lead. Foss did the bulk of the work on the drive, picking up 39 yards, but it was senior Mike Allen who capped the drive with a 20 yard run after being sprung by a great block from senior Jayce Humes. Nick Danas added the first of his four extra points for a 7-0 lead with 7:31 left in the first quarter.

After holding the Golden Knights to a three and out on their first possession, the Rams wasted little time in adding to their lead on a seven play, 48 yard drive that Foss capped off with a six yard run up the middle on a fourth and one to make it 14-0. Foss and Allen had the key plays on the drive with Foss picking up 19 yards and Allen adding 12 more on the next play. Wilmington's Jason Baker picked up nine yards on the play prior to Foss' touchdown to put the Rams in scoring position.

"I thought the team started out very fast today on both sides of the ball," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "They came ready to play. Northeast was fired up for a chance to knock us off and our kids responded well in a very emotional environment."

The only glimmer of hope for Northeast in the first half came early in the second quarter when Northeast got a great roll on a punt and downed the ball at the one yard line. On the Rams first play from scrimmage Foss a Northeast defender burst through the Shawsheen line and buried Foss in the end zone for a safety to make the score 14-2 with 10:31 left in the half.

After the free kick, the Rams stopped ensuing Northeast possession when sophomore Stephen Higgins of Tewksbury pounced on a fumble at the Rams 22 yard line. Moments later, Foss, who may have misjudged the punt that led to the safety, more than made up for any miscue when he broke free for a 78 yard touchdown run, forcing a Northeast defender to slip on the muddy field with a great move in the secondary and then racing down the right sideline for a 21-2 lead with 7:00 left in the half.

Foss has now rushed for 520 yards and four touchdowns on the season.

"Cory had a heck of a game," Costabile said. "He played real well."

Northeast's only score of the game came on their opening possession of the second half when they put together a seven play, 63 yard drive that featured a strong running attack. Senior running back Chris MacDonald finished things off for the Golden Knights with a 15 yard run up the middle of the Rams defense. The extra point rush failed and the Rams led 21-8.

The Rams responded with an impressive drive of their own, moving from their 14 yard line all the way to the Northeast five, before finally being stopped. In fact, the Rams appeared to have scored a touchdown on a five yard run by Foss, but the play was called back due to a holding penalty and the Ram drive stalled three plays later.

The Rams put the capper on the game on their next possession, driving 51 yards on 12 plays, eating up five minutes of valuable game clock along the way before Baker capped the drive with a three yard touchdown run with 1:15 left in the game.

Shawsheen quarterback Shaun Miller connected on a couple of key completions on the drive, one for 16 yards to Wilmington's Andrew Companschi and another for 12 yards to sophomore Robert Greenwood. Miller had a fine game in his own right, completing five of seven passes for 78 yards.

"Miller was tremendous," Costabile said. "He had a great all around game."

The Rams will resume their schedule next Saturday night against another Lower Division rival when they travel to Endicott College in Beverly to take on Manchester-Essex. Manchester enters the game with a perfect 3-0 record, having outscored their three opponents by an astounding 119-28, with their most recent win coming last Saturday in a 40-6 triumph over Minuteman Regional.

Senior quarterback Pat Orlando has rushed for four touchdowns and thrown for five. Last season, the Rams downed the Hornets by a score of 18-7 despite Orlando throwing for 171 yards and rushing for a touchdown.

Vassallo easily takes half marathon title

before Philadelphia. In preparation of that race, as well as future marathons, I have been training over a hundred miles a week.

"Most of my running has been in Brunswick, Maine, where I lived from January until September while I worked for the Portland Sea Dogs baseball team. However, I just finished moving back to Wilmington as I just got a new consulting job in Peabody. The last few weeks I did quite a bit of training on the course to find where the mile marks were."

Vassallo was actually not satisfied with the time he got in the 13.1 mile half marathon on Sunday, as he was hoping to come through the finish line at a lower time than he did.

"I would have liked to run about a minute faster than I did, and I feel like if not for the last week, I would have done that," said Vassallo. "One of my training partners, Nate Freese, was preparing to run this race as well, but injured his hip flexor four days before the race. If Nate had stayed healthy, we would have raced against each other and pushed each other to a 1:07 or a 1:08. Nate was with me for the last four miles—but he was riding in his car."

Vassallo ran his first mile of the race 5:00 flat, but then he settled down the rest of the way. He averaged 5:18 per mile for the first ten miles and maintained a 5:18 for the last three.

He said many of his friends ran in the race this year, including some from his Merrimack Valley Striders team as well as his college team.

"A few of my former track teammates from Colby College, Bob Giotfely and Ben Ossoff, ran the race," said Vassallo. "Two of my teammates from the Merrimack Valley Striders, Lars and Caroline Bjune, also ran the race. Caroline, who ran in the 2008 USA Olympic Trials, won the women's race."

"I have to give the most credit to Jason Gustin, my teammate from Wilmington High School, who came out of running retirement to do this race. My brother Kenny was working at the race. My Wilmington track teammate Johnny Lee came up from Somerville to watch the race, and my Colby teammate Dan Moss came up from Medfield. Moss and Nate Freese followed me in Nate's car for the last four miles, screaming at me and playing rap music."

Many other people were at the race as well, including many different people from his hometown.

"There were a lot of people from Wilmington there to cheer me on," said Vassallo. "It was great to see Frank Kelley, Mrs. Tocci, Allison Fisher, Rosalie McConologue, Jack Cushing, and Tom Pazyra there, because they've had my back since day one."

Vassallo added that there were many easy parts about the race, but there were surely some difficult parts as well.

"Theoretically, the downhill final mile should have been the easiest, but because it's so late in the race it is never easy," said Vassallo. "The first five miles were probably when I ran the strongest. I struggled a bit in the seventh mile, as the course hits a series of three hills in North Reading."

Vassallo said that running in road races are great, but he enjoyed this one for the simple reason that it took place in his hometown.

"The best part about running the race in Wilmington is the fact that while running races in Maine, Boston, Philadelphia, and other places are cool, doing well in a race that goes on the roads I've been running since I was twelve means a whole different thing," said Vassallo. "I get to represent Wilmington in the place it matters most."

"For such a small race, it was also pretty well-organized. I think some of the guys at the water stops were surprised I showed up as early as I did, but that is not a problem."

Before running in the Philadelphia Half Marathon, Vassallo plans to run in a handful of cross-country races in Boston and perhaps Maine, but Vassallo also said that he will not be running the 2009 Boston

Marathon this year.

"I am 23-years-old and there is no reason for me to run quality marathons every six or twelve months at this age," said Vassallo. "My next (26.2 mile) marathon will likely be in the fall of 2009 so I can try to qualify for the Olympic Trials."

Bjune tandem first two to finish 5K

By ANDREA CORRIVEAU
Sports Correspondent

It was a typical Sunday morning for Andover resident Caroline Bjune. Normally on Sundays, she's out and about hitting the pavements and gearing up for her next race.

Well this past Sunday, her preparation helped her to become the first female finisher of the fourth annual Wilmington Happy Birthday Half Marathon road race.

Bjune ran the half marathon with husband, Lars, as training for the New York marathon in November.

"We probably would've done a long run just on our own, but we were really happy when we saw there was a race here (in Wilmington) because it made it a lot easier to do a workout," said Caroline.

With her husband just a few feet away, Bjune, ran an impressive time of 1:24.47 and finished 12th among the 164 participants. She said that she isn't alone in her running feats.

"Well my husband [runs], that's how we met," said Bjune. "And then my sister just got into running. She does triathlons. (It's a) nice little family event."

In fact, she and her husband have been training for quite a while now.

"Well for the marathon, probably the past, about, maybe ten weeks (we've been training)," she said. "Ten to 12 weeks training for the marathon and then we're doing a half marathon in a couple of weeks as a race, and then we'll do New York in November."

Bjune said she doesn't have any specific training methods, instead she just puts in a lot of long runs.

"A lot of high miles, try and work out once a week and then it's usually a long run on the weekend, either just easy running or some pace work," she said. "That's what we did today; every few miles picked it up."

Sunday's continuous downpour didn't slow her down a bit during the race. However, when asked if she thought the rain inhibited her at all, Bjune didn't seem to think so.

"No, actually it wasn't too bad because temperature wise it's nice and it wasn't too windy," she said. "The wind usually bothers me more than rain. So, actually I didn't find it that bad at all today."

Bjune was a sprinter in high school, but claims she was, "not really that good." After that, it wasn't until her mid 20's that she got back into it.

This was Bjune's first time running the Happy Birthday Race, but she was very pleased with how things went.

"I didn't really know what to expect and it was really well organized. It was nice. I was really impressed by how well organized the race was."

The course seemed to be to her liking, as well.

"There was, you know, some rolling hills, but it was a nice race to get ready for a marathon, I thought. Nothing too challenging, but it wasn't flat. It was a good course. Nice rolling course."

Pop Warner C team overtakes Melrose, 20-6

Heavy rain and a wet field did not deter the Wilmington Pop Warner C Team from recording their fourth consecutive win of the season Sunday as they outplayed the Melrose Apache, 20-6.

Despite the bad weather, the Wildcat defense played well. Melrose was unable to move the ball and needed to punt on their first four possessions. Defensive ends Connor Bennett and Peter Daley did an excellent job of containing the Melrose runningbacks and forcing them to run up the middle. On the defensive line, Joe Scuto, Robert Yates and John Irizary were exploding through the Apache offensive line, stopping all forward progress on the muddy field. Dylan Masiello, Alec Dellano, Johnny Reynolds and Antonio Larfarello made their presence felt with great open field tackling on a very slick playing surface.

Once the Wildcat offense got the ball, quarterback Ryan Carroccino methodically moved the team down the field on a series of alternating runs by Shaughn Hiltz and Matt Penney, who consistently bowled over tacklers for first downs. On the right side of the offensive line, Michael Amato, Andrew Vellucci and Robert Fullerton, were pushing the Melrose defensive line into the secondary, allowing Hiltz to gain substantial yardage on each carry.

Offensive linemen Ryan Adams and Andrew Lesperance, were vital in Penney's running success to the left. Carroccino capped off the 60-yard 12-play drive with a dive into the end zone from the 2-yard line. Solid blocking by Connor Bennett, and guards David Woods and Robert Connors, opened the hole for Penney to charge up the middle for the extra point. Wildcats led 7-0.

On their next possession, the Wildcats marched 50 yards in 9 plays to score. Running behind

Brian Neal and Andrew Murray did an excellent job of protecting the right side from the Apache pass rush, allowing time for Carroccino to complete the play. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful. Wilmington led at Halftime 13-0.

Throughout the game, the Wildcat defense stifled the Apache offense. Cody Wile, Zach Toto and John Roberts were smothering the Melrose runningbacks as they attempted to get past the line of scrimmage. Nick Cimaglia and Patrick Finn made some hits that had the Melrose ballcarriers wishing the game had been cancelled because of the weather.

Wilmington would score again in the 3rd Quarter with an explosive 25-yard run by Matt Penney, and Ryan Carroccino would run in the extra point conversion to give the Wildcats a 20-0 lead.

Melrose managed to score on their last drive of the game making the final score 20-6. Wilmington plays again next Sunday, October 5th, at Burlington.

Papageorgiou named Player of the Week for Defending National Champs

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington's Vinny Papageorgiou, a freshman at Franklin Pierce, is just the latest local soccer standout to be honored for his efforts.

Papageorgiou was named Northeast-10 men's soccer Freshman of the Week after leading the defending Division 2 National champion team to a 1-0-1 record. The former standout WHS goalie made three saves to preserve his first collegiate shutout in a 0-0 double-overtime draw with Southern Connecticut State University last Saturday. He notched his first victory in a 5-1 win over The College of Saint Rose, with the lone goal coming on a penalty kick.

Wilmington resident, Lani Cabral-Pini, a senior at Lesley University, was selected to attend the National NCAA Student Athlete Leadership Conference held recently in Orlando, Florida. She and more than 700 athletes from all over the world were guests at Walt Disney's Yacht Club.

The conference provides NCAA student-athletes with a chance to discuss many different areas within an educational setting. Cabral-Pini was given the opportunity to enhance leadership, communication, decision-making and problem solving skills while promoting better communication between student-athletes, coaches, administration, faculty and the community.

The mission of the conference is to provide a diverse group of nations top student-athletes an opportunity to actively participate in challenging and thought provoking activities that will enable them to become better leaders. Cabral-Pini is a well respected student-athlete who is a valuable member of the soccer, basketball and softball teams as well as a member of the student advisory council.

Cabral-Pini was excited to have the opportunity to meet the many athletes/leaders from the myriad of colleges/universities around the world. "It was a great experience; one that I will never forget," she said.

Two local athletes are getting some serious playing time for the WPI football team on different sides of the ball. Wilmington's Ernie Mello — last year's Town Crier Male Athlete of the Year — a freshman running back, has been the team's primary kick returner. He's had five kick returns for 165 yards, busting out a long of 69 yards. He also has 32 yards rushing on four attempts and one catch for eight yards. Adam Power, a sophomore defensive back from Tewksbury, — who grabbed the Town Crier Male Athlete of the Year two years ago — has 11 solo tackles and eight assisted tackles so far this year.

Mike Fitzgerald, a freshman wide receiver at MIT, hasn't let his young age overwhelm him on the gridiron. The Wilmington native and Malden Catholic grad had three catches for 64 yards in a 43-42 win over Nichols on Saturday. Fitzgerald scored his first collegiate TD two weeks earlier in a 42-14 win over Mass Maritime Academy. For the season, Fitzgerald has eight catches for 164 yards.

Fitzgerald faced off against three other local residents in that game. Tewksbury's Kevin McCarthy and Steven Alves and Wilmington's Kyle Moon are all playing for Mass Maritime this fall. McCarthy, a junior defensive back, has played in all four games. He has 17 tackles, 14 of them solo, and also has five kick returns. Alves, a sophomore linebacker, has seven solo and four assisted tackles to go along with a forced fumble. Moon, a freshman quarterback, has played in three games, going 6-for-10 for 76 yards.

Another former Town Crier Athlete of the Year, Tewksbury's Chris Byrne has three tackles, one of them solo, as his Northeastern Huskies defeated UC Davis 27-10 on Saturday. For the season, the junior defensive lineman has seven tackles.

Turning back to soccer, Stephen Potcner scored goals in consecutive games for UMass Lowell as the River Hawks continue conference play. On Wednesday, the all-time leading goal scorer at WHS, scored in the 70th minute as the River Hawks drew 1-1 in double overtime with New York Institute of Technology. He followed that up with a goal just before halftime in a 3-2 overtime loss to Saint Anselm on Sunday.

Taryn Martiniello notched her third assist of the season for the Brandeis women's soccer team in a 5-1 win over Smith College on Wednesday. The Wilmington resident, a sophomore defender for the Judges', has started in all eight of her team's games.

Freshman Matt Figueiredo has kept up his torrid offensive start for the unbeaten Salem State men's soccer team. The

Matt Figueiredo

Wilmington resident scored a goal in Tuesday's 3-3 tie against Eastern Connecticut University. Figueiredo played every minute of the game, as Salem State is now 7-0-1 on the season.

On the Salem State women's soccer team, freshman Leah Potcner continues her incredible play in the net. On Tuesday, she recorded her fifth shut out of the season as Salem defeated Southern Maine, 2-0, to improve to 7-1-1 on the season. Leah's teammate Amber Warnick, another former WHS standout, scored one of the two goals for the team.

Nicole Dumond of Tewksbury has continued her strong play from last year as a member of the Southern New Hampshire volleyball team. The senior had a very impressive match as her team split a pair of games against the University of the Sciences in Philadelphia last Saturday. In the night game, Dumond had 15 digs and handed out a team-high 20 assists.

Dumond isn't the only Tewksbury native making plays on the volleyball court. Vicky Wong helped lead the UMass Lowell volleyball team to a stunning 3-0 victory over Queens College last Friday. The sophomore had five kills, 11 digs and four aces.

Tewksbury's Sammy Macy has added another piece of hardware to her growing trophy case. The UMass Lowell field hockey star was named Northeast-10 Player of the Week after scoring a team-high five goals as the River Hawks went 2-0. Macy, a former Town Crier Female Athlete of the Year, netted a hat trick in a 6-0 win over Saint Anselm on last Wednesday and scored two goals in a 6-4 win at Franklin Pierce. Macy leads the River Hawks with 13 goals and 30 points.

Macy's good pal, Karla Rotondi of Tewksbury is seeing action for the Worcester State field hockey team. The sophomore midfielder has played in six of her team's eight games, launching three shots with one of them on goal.

Sticking to field hockey, freshman Nicole Engrem has played three games thus far for New England College. The team is off to a 6-3 start in the Commonwealth Coast Conference. The Wilmington native is a defender on the Pilgrims' team.

Tewksbury's Paula Bartalamia has three goals and two assists thus far for Fitchburg State. She is second on the team in goals and tied for the team lead in points with eight. Fitchburg was defeated on Tuesday and have a 3-4 overall record.

Paula Bartalamia

Sarah Bonomo and Jennifer Carr both competed for the UMass Lowell cross-country team in the "Codfish Bowl Invitational" held at Franklin Park on Saturday. Both are sophomores from Tewksbury. Bonomo placed for the River Hawks, finishing in 38th place with a time of 20:54. Carr placed 59th and ran a time of 21:23.

A number of local runners took part in last Sunday's "Fifth Annual Kerouac 5K" held in Lowell. Tewksbury's Robert Wallace finished in 150th place with a time of 24:53. Bud Ahern's time of 26:21 placed him 193rd. Denise Illsley finished in 213th place with a time of 27:05. Ryan Sullivan crossed the line at 28:55, placing 266th. Kevin Donnelly finished in 399th place with a time of 40:14. Robert Hunter's time of 43:18 was good enough for 406th place. On the Wilmington side, Trenton Hoyt ran a time of 23:02, placing 89th. Lauren Groves' time of 28:56 placed her 267th.

Tewksbury's Jim Sullivan is running a softball tournament this Friday at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks. All proceeds will go to the American Stroke Association. For more information, e-mail Sullivan at: jsullivan337@yahoo.com

David Kimmelman

By PAUL FEELY

After years of experiencing the thrill that comes from performing on stage in front of an audience, one Woburn man is on a mission to make sure the curtain doesn't come down for good on arts programs in his community.

Woburn's David Kimmelman has performed in many shows over the years, acting in both large-scale productions and small community theater shows. But David, like many actors, caught their first taste of a life in show business upon a stage in grammar

Woburn's David Kimmelman

Lost Arts

Community theater, music & performing arts live on in Woburn school, and his latest project is one that looks to ensure that children in Woburn will have the same opportunity he did to perform in the spotlight for many years to come.

Kimmelman is president and founder of the Woburn Repertory Community Theater (WRCT), a brand-new venture for the arts in a blue-collar city known for its love of sports.

"I feel there's an audience waiting for this type of thing in Woburn," said Kimmelman. "I have had a lot of positive feedback from people already."

According to its mission statement, WRCT is a non-profit community repertory theater company whose philanthropic mission is to deliver quality theatrical productions with the intent to contribute profits to Woburn Memorial High School's theater and music endeavors.

"My ultimate goal is to eventually be able to give between $20-25,000 a year to the Woburn schools to support arts programs," said Kimmelman.

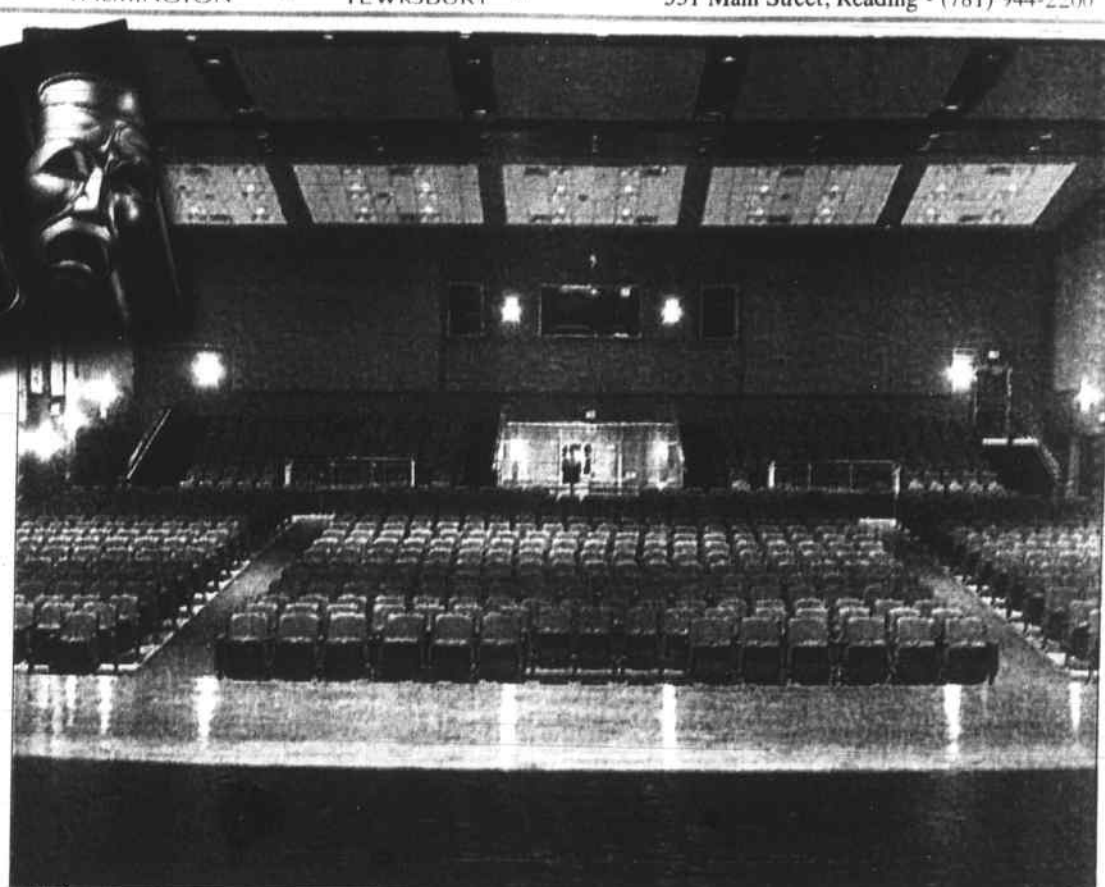

Additionally, the WRCT also lists a goal of educating and mentoring local Woburn students on various aspects of theater arts including but not limited to: Set Design and Construction, Lighting Design, Stage Management, Props, Directing, Acting and more.

Kimmelman has been involved in the world of the arts since he was eight years old. He grew up in New York, and while in high school was part of a school ensemble that won awards at various drama competitions.

"I knew that theater was something I wanted to pursue," said Kimmelman.

He graduated from the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York in 1981 (which has been training professional actors for over one hundred and twenty years, getting them ready for stage, film and television by means of a structured, professionally-oriented program. To date, Academy alumni have received nominations for 72 Oscars, 233 Emmys and 83 Tonys).

Upon graduation, Kimmelman began pursuing a professional acting career, taking part in many productions. His career path took him through jobs on several films, including working as a Production Assistant on the film "The Bostonians," which was shot in Boston and Martha's Vineyard, as well as a week-long stint on the soap opera "Days of our Lives" in 1985.

Kimmelman has called the Boston area his home for the past 20 years, and while he now works fulltime in the Human Resources field, he has remained involved in the world of theater, performing with various local community repertory groups such as the Quannapowitt Players in Reading and the Burlington Players in Burlington, where he has developed a long list of contacts in the world of community theater.

Kimmelman got the idea to form the WRCT when the new Woburn Memorial High School was built, and he got an up-close look at the facility.

"Woburn just built a brand-new high school, and the first time I took a tour of the place I walked into the new performing arts center inside the high school, and I was just blown away," said Kimmelman. "That's when I got the idea of forming an adult theater group, to help drum up revenue for the schools."

Kimmelman has seen cuts made to arts programs firsthand, and he is hoping his new venture will help eliminate that from happening again in the near future.

"Hopefully we can restore some of what has been lost in the arts programs in the past," said Kimmelman. "I know this (Woburn) is a very big sports city. I've been involved in the sports scene myself, with the soccer programs and I've helped run the Woburn Recreation Girls Basketball Program. But I think it's a sad statement about society that when funds run low, arts are one of the first areas cut."

Because Kimmelman is fortunate enough to have been involved with some many productions over the years, he has built up a large group of contacts, and therefore has quite a talent pool to draw from when it comes to the WRCT.

"We will be operating by invitation-only," said Kimmelman. "We're going to be drawing from the best actors, the best directors, the lighting and sound specialists, etc., that the area has to offer. We already have actors who are coming from out of state to be a part of this company."

Because this is a new theatre company, deciding on what would become its first production was an important venture. The group decided on David Lindsay-Abaire's Pulitzer Prize-winning play "Rabbit Hole," a piece that Kimmelman feels will stay with audience members long after they exit the show.

Old-fashioned in structure, the play takes place almost exclusively in one house and tells the tale of a family overcoming the death of their child.

"I think there will be a message in there for a lot of people," said Kimmelman. "I think it can do a lot for people, because it touches on such a wide range of emotions, and maybe help resolve things that have been going on in their own lives."

The group's second production, "Godspell," scheduled to run in February, will feature two adults in the lead roles, but the rest of the parts will likely be filled by high school students, an aspect of the production that Kimmelman is very excited about.

"We will be giving high school students the opportunity to work alongside theater professionals," said Kimmelman. "Any high school student that wants to participate can under our apprenticeship program." "Rabbit Hole" production dates run from October 10-11, 18-19, and 24-25, while "Godspell" is scheduled to run February 6-7, 13-14, and 20-21.

Kimmelman has taped an interview about WRCT with a local Woburn cable station. Woburn residents can watch the interview at the following times:

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"EAGLE EYE"

"EAGLE EYE" stars Shia La Beouf and Michelle Monaghan. Shia has perfected the slacker-turned-reluctant-hero role in this film. As a paranoid thriller for paranoid times "Eagle Eye" pushes the right buttons. It may be silly or enjoyable, or both, depending on your taste in movies.

"EAGLE EYE"
GRADE: ***

A tight, jittery conspiracy drama, "Eagle Eye" envisions an all-knowing enemy that can infiltrate any telephone, takeover all television monitors and even manipulate traffic signals to engineer lethal car crashes.

This time, Big Brother isn't just watching us - he wants to make us dance, fool, dance.

Shia LaBeouf stars as Jerry Shaw, a Chicago slacker who comes home one day to find his apartment stuffed with terrorist weaponry. His cell phone rings and a mad-deningly calm voice issues a series of instructions along with the ominous declaration, "You've been activated."

Across town, single mother Rachel Holloman (Michelle Monaghan) receives a similar call, with a threat that if she doesn't follow her instructions this unseen enemy will kill her young son. Soon Jerry and Michelle are thrown together to carry out a labyrinthine assassination plot against their will.

As a paranoid thriller for paranoid times, "Eagle Eye" pushes the right buttons. For the sake of convenience and national security, we've laid nearly every aspect of our lives in the hands of technology, but at what cost?

"Eagle Eye" is directed by D.J. Caruso, who made "Disturbia," the "Rear Window" homage that starred LaBeouf as the homebound Jimmy Stewart character. Steven Spielberg, who has an executive producer credit, dreamed up the movie's plot.

LaBeouf has perfected the role of slacker-turned-reluctant-hero, and he generally carries the film, even when it occasionally slows down to catch its breath between nifty chase scenes - including a tumbling pursuit through an airport baggage system.

It will be either one of the year's sillier films or one of its most enjoyable ones - or possibly a combination of both, depending on your personality. In either case, the exciting action makes it easier to go down, as does the very good ensemble cast. "LAKEVIEW TERRACE"

GRADE: ***

Sometimes the personality and persona of a star helps moviegoers overlook the shortcomings of a film's script. That's the case with Samuel L. Jackson in his new film, Lakeview Terrace, a thriller that's initially engaging but winds up imploding thanks to a weak third act.

Chris and Lisa Mattson (Patrick Wilson and Kerry Washington) are an interracial couple who move into a suburban Los Angeles home, next door to Abel Turner (Jackson), a diligent cop who goes out of his way to make the neighborhood safe with his own nightly patrols.

Trouble is, his so-called concern for the Mattsons soon escalates into harassment as this widowed dad views their liberal marriage as an affront to his conservative values and he vows to drive them from their home. His pranks (lights shining in their bedroom, crashing parties) escalate rapidly and soon the Mattsons find themselves fighting for their sanity and their lives with nowhere to turn.

This film reminds viewers of Pacific Heights, with the neighbor-from-hell played by Michael Keaton, and Unlawful Entry, starring Ray Liotta as the cop-from-hell. Terrace is no better than these films, and at times it is even more manipulative. Not only is the man next door the neighbor and cop from hell combined, but hell is fast approaching their home, literally, in the form of a raging forest fire knocking on the neighborhood's door.

The cast is decent, but even their efforts, or Jackson's charisma, can't save this film from itself.

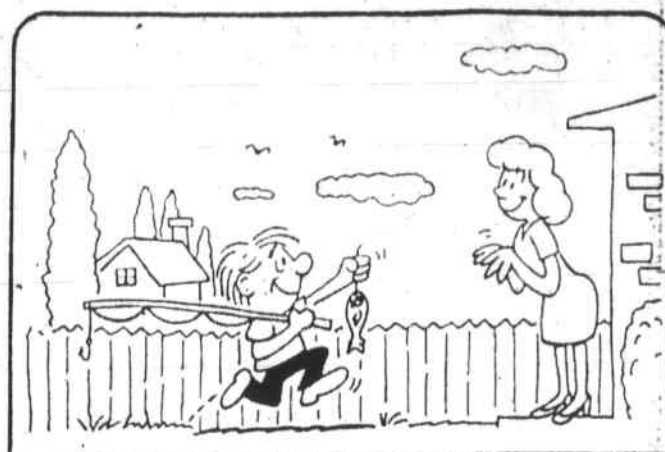

"BURN AFTER READING"

GRADE: ***

The new Coen brothers movie, "Burn After Reading," is good while almost great, above average but not quite excellent, as this story about dumb people creating a crippling run of chaos between the CIA and a gym called Hardbodies unfolds.

There are some big laughs, and a major twist that takes the story to another level entirely, but it is unable to maintain that level of greatness.

"Burn" is good, particularly given the performances from Pitt, McDormand, Clooney and J.K. Simmons, but no one will argue that this film is on the same level as the last Coen brothers effort, the Academy-Award-winning "No Country for Old Men."

it's DIFFERENT By How?

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?

ANSWERS: Brick, Chimney, Cloud, Fishing line,

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA

QUESTION: Before Miami Dolphins runningback Ronnie Brown did it against the New England Patriots on September 21, who was the last player to rush for four touchdowns and throw for another in an NFL game?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•The Boston College Hall of Fame was founded by the Varsity Club in 1970 and has inducted over 400 of the finest student-athletes ever to wear the Maroon and Gold.

For over twenty years, the Hall of Fame was without a home, but in 1989 the Varsity Club unveiled the plaques of the 1989 Hall inductees on the West Concourse of Conte Forum. Since that time, more than 390 Hall of Fame members have had their plaques permanently placed in this distinctive location.

The list of 2008 Inductees includes READING'S STEVE LANGONE, Class of 2000 (baseball): Steve Langone was a dominant pitcher and prolific hitter for the Eagles from 1997-2000. As a pitcher, he recorded 24 victories in four seasons, including eight in each of his last two years.

As a senior, he finished with an 8-2 record and nation's best 1.54 earned run average. He struck out 65 batters and walked just six in 76.0 innings that year. At the plate, the Reading native completed his career with a .356 batting average and 117 RBIs in 154 games.

As a senior, he captured ABCA/Rawlings All-America second-team honors and NCBWA All-America third-team recognition. Langone was a four-time Big East honoree - All-Rookie Team in 1991, All-Conference second team in 1998 and 1999, and All-Conference first team in 2000.

•Playing in a consistent rainfall, fumbles and penalties proved costly for visiting Harvard as the Crimson dropped a 24-22 decision to Brown in an Ivy League game at Brown Stadium. Brown escaped with victory after the Crimson scored a late touchdown but saw its two-point conversion fail with one minute remaining in the game. The victory ended an eight-game losing streak by the Bears against Harvard.

CHRIS PIZZOTTI (READING) finished an impressive game with 320 yards passing on 25 completions, marking the third straight game in which he has surpassed the 300-yard barrier.

•UNH scored two unanswered goals to remain unbeaten on the season as the Wildcats defeated UMass 2-1 last week at Bremner Field. UMass senior midfielder MIKE DESANTIS (STONEHAM) tallied the Minutemen's lone goal in the 26th minute, but UNH scored goals in the 41st and 50th minutes of play for the win.

With the loss, UMass falls to 2-3-1 overall, while New Hampshire improves to 5-0-2 with the win.

DeSantis scored the opening goal of the game, his first of the season, on a direct kick from sophomore midfielder Ben Arikian (West Islip, N.Y.) following a New Hampshire foul. Arikian served the ball towards the left post from 30 yards out but the pass was deflected off a Wildcat defender towards the right post. DeSantis managed to get a foot on the ball to slip it past UNH keeper Colin O'Donnell.

READING RECREATION (FORR) along with the Reading Recreation Division will be hosting a Wiffleball tournament on Sunday October 5th from 1:00pm to 5:00pm at the tennis court field at the Birch Meadow complex (tennis court field is behind the lot on Bancroft street near the new tennis courts). Teams of up to 5 or as few as 2 can compete for town bragging rights. Multiple Wiffleball fields will be used, complete with strike zones and home run boundaries. Registration is available for teams who wish to play in the competitive division (ages 10 and above), but there will also be a field available for a less competitive, "just for fun" game for people of all ages to play. There is no charge for this event.

Registration for the tournament can be done online at <http://www.forr01867.org/wiffl.html>. For information about FORR, please visit the FORR website at www.FORR01867.org.

•HARVARD QUARTERBACK CHRIS PIZZOTTI (READING) has been named the Ivy League Offensive Player of the Week by the Ivy League office in an announcement Monday morning.

The awards come following the Crimson's riveting 25-24 victory over Holy Cross in the first Friday night game at historic Harvard Stadium.

Pizzotti completed 30 of 44 passes for 370 yards and one touchdown through the air, while rushing for two more touchdowns as he led Harvard to a come-from-behind win. Pizzotti accounted for all three Harvard touchdowns, which came in the fourth quarter as the Crimson scored 19 points.

With Harvard trailing, 17-6, entering the fourth quarter, Pizzotti threw a 68-yard touchdown pass to get the team back in the game. Still, Harvard trailed, 24-12, with under seven minutes remaining before he orchestrated scoring drives of 66 and 60 yards, respectively, capped by a pair of 1-yard scoring runs from the senior.

In the fourth quarter alone, Pizzotti was 8-for-10 for 148 yards and his 30 pass completions was good for second all-time for single game

SPLASH!

What was happening (Wakefield)

"If you've driven along North Avenue in the last couple of months, you've noticed something going on in Lake Quannapowitt," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"There's an area of the lake that's been roped off and what looked to be a boat was floating out there. That boat is actually a dredge, which is a device for scraping or sucking the seabed (or the lakebed, in this case).

"The lake was being dredged of coal tar that was initially deposited there in the late 1800s/early 1900s.

"The reason why this project came about when the tar has been there for over a hundred years is that earlier this decade, according to Gas and Light Department Manager Peter Dion, the lake was sampled by an outside group.

"However, Dion mentioned he was unaware of why the lake was sampled, as he was not around at the time. Though, he did state that going forward, the lake will be sampled every two years.

"The sampling found material buried there, though where it was buried (eight feet deep), the coal tar was not hazardous. However, once it was discovered, it had to be removed. In its place will be a new sand bottom.

"The project was supposed to take several weeks, but according to Dion, who is currently overseeing it, there were two reasons for the delay. One issue had to do with the rocky areas that were harder to navigate around.

"The other one concerned the higher concentration of benzene, which had to be treated differently...."

Smooth sailing in Burlington

"The copious amounts of rain this summer have had many negative effects on the region, but the weather conditions combined with a fully operating second water treatment plant have made this a much more relaxing summer for town officials," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"We are fine," was Town Administrator Robert Mercier's recent assessment of Burlington's water situation during the peak demand period.

"Water issues can vary sharply from year to year, depending on summer weather and winter snowfall. However, 2007 became far more complicated for the town due to delays in completing the renovation and expansion of the Mill Pond Water Treatment Plant.

"The problems led to the town imposing water restrictions of various kinds from May to October.

"There were no restrictions this summer as Mercier reported the plant was fully operational and, in fact, was being used to give the Vine Brook Groundwater Treatment Plant a rest while the town reconditioned wells in the Vine Brook aquifer.

"The Vine Brook facility, the town's primary water production source, treats water from the aquifer.

Get rid of "Phantom Load" in your home

Fall is the perfect time to make adjustments around the house in anticipation of the higher utility bills that often come with colder weather. While some projects aimed at lessening your energy load can be expensive, the following tips won't take much time, but can save lots of money.

* Cut ties with phantom load.

According to the Maine Public Utilities Commission, 75 percent of electricity used to power home electronics is consumed when these products are turned off. How so? It's the result of something known as "phantom load." Phantom load occurs because many electronic products, such as televisions, computers, video game consoles, kitchen appliances, etc., continue to draw power when they're turned off.

Unless they're unplugged when they're not being used, chances are they're still drawing power. Avoid phantom load by unplugging products when not in use, particularly when leaving for work in the morning or going to sleep at night.

* Change the light bulbs. How many light bulbs does it take to cause an energy bill to skyrocket? If they're compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs), a lot. CFLs use one-third the amount of energy that their more antiquated incandescent bulb counterparts use.

* Check your heating and cooling products and practices. In many cases, homeowners are paying to heat the outdoors. That's because leaks around doors and windows, particularly in older homes, require homeowners to turn up the thermostat in an effort to stay warm. Seal any leaks around windows and doors, and also examine heating ducts and seal any leaks there as well.

Another area in which homeowners typically lose money is the way in which they set their thermostats, especially during the day when most people are not home. When a home is unoccupied, set the thermostat in the mid-50s to lower-60s. In general, a home will take between 30 to 60 minutes to heat when the temperature on the thermostat is raised to room temperature. That's not a lot of time but the lower daytime temperature will save homeowners lots of money.

* Wash and dry clothes more efficiently. Washing one large load will require less energy than washing two loads on a lower setting. Also, rinse clothes in cold water. This won't affect how the cleanliness of the clothes, but will save money.

Drying clothes is also a common source of wasted energy. It's also important not to overfill the dryer, as air is needed to circulate around the clothing to dry them properly. An over-stuffed dryer will take far more time to dry the clothes. A clogged filter also makes a dryer less efficient, so be sure to clean the filter of lint and dust, which only takes a matter of seconds, before each dry.

through a new paint job. Plus, they are great at sealing surfaces and allowing you to use less paint, so you're actually saving money. In fact, research shows that one coat of tinted primer and one coat of paint will give you a longer lasting, better looking paint job than two coats of paint! Bulls Eye 1-2-3 (for light and pastel colors) and Bulls Eye 1-2-3 Deep Tint (for medium and dark colors) are specially formulated for tinting. Just ask your paint store or home center associate to add the same universal colorant to your primer that they will use to tint your paint.

Answers to your painting questions

As the weather begins to cool down, why not head inside and spruce up the interior of your home? A fresh coat of paint will improve the look of any room, but for professional quality results, you have to paint like a professional. Here are the answers to your commonly asked painting questions:

primer, the paint will adhere better. Primer will even stick to slick glossy surfaces like paneling, cabinets, glossy paints and vinyl siding -- without the need for sanding -- taking an extra step out of painting projects.

If I'm using colored paint, won't it just hide a previous paint job? Probably not. Primers are designed specifically to hide previous colors -- even dark blues and reds -- and prevent them from showing

Can I paint over stains on ceilings and walls? No. Most stains -- including water stains, crayon and marker, lipstick, nicotine, and airborne grease from cooking -- will bleed right through paint, no matter how many coats of paint you apply. Quality stain-blocking primers, like CoverStain, permanently seal in stains and prevent them from showing through and ruining your paint job.

How can I prevent other paint problems like peeling? Primers are specifically formulated to prevent common problems like cracking, peeling and blistering, and they'll make any painted surface more durable, washable and last much longer.

An inviting entrance can help make a great first impression for homeowners looking to sell. A few potted plants can make a big difference.

Laminate for the 21st Century

It's not what you expect

Laminate for kitchen countertops was born in an age of prosperity and great optimism. Post World-War II housewives could finally afford to replace the linoleum - yes linoleum! - on their countertops with the sleek plastic sheets in dozens of colors and patterns. For the next 30 years, laminate dominated kitchen countertops in familiar butcherblock, boomerang, abstract daisy and pastel colors flecked with gold.

Today's laminate has come a long way from there, and some say: "It's about time!" Homeowners in the 21st century have the luxury of choosing between hundreds of surface options for their countertops, including high-dollar materials like solid surfacing, quartz surfacing, granite and other natural stones. Laminate remains the most popular choice, probably due to its wide design range, durability and affordability. And, if you've looked at countertop options lately, you know that laminate sure isn't what it used to be.

One new development is Wilsonart HD High Definition Laminate, available in 32 designs created specifically for countertops. Unlike old-school "matte finish" laminate, Wilsonart HD's deep, rich look and dimensional texture can give your kitchen countertop or bathroom vanity a truly luxurious look without the high budget price tag.

With designs that emulate the look and feel of granite, marble and exotic stone, 21st century laminates can be a good choice also for home offices, rec rooms and even laundry rooms.

Laminate has a whole range of additional benefits, not the least of which is easy care. Most normal kitchen messes clean up easily with an all-purpose cleaner. Even stubborn stains are simple to remove from the non-porous surface.

Better yet, high performance laminates like Wilsonart HD carry extra wear resistance, some as much as three times the industry standard for countertop laminate.

Homeowners can look forward to a new vision of laminate that is a far cry from the old butcherblock and boomerangs. To paraphrase an old advertisement: "It's not your grandmother's laminate any more."

'Remodel' your bath for under $100

Every year, Americans spend millions of dollars remodeling their bathrooms, replacing fixtures and vanities and purchasing high-end accessories. But there's a lot you can do to transform the look of your bathroom from the past owner's pink or baby blue or lilac color palate into a modern and clean style of your own - even when your budget is tight. All you need is some paint and a little imagination. Here are a few ideas from the experts at Rust-Oleum:

Don't replace. Refinish. Replacing bathroom fixtures is one of the most expensive projects associated with a bathroom remodel and replacing bathroom tiles often requires the services of a contractor. But now, thanks to advances in paint technology, you can change the color of your bathtub, sink, toilet, and tile or simply give them a "like new" finish without busting your budget. Products like Rust-Oleum(R) Specialty Tub and Tile Refinishing Kit features a self-leveling epoxy acrylic formula that acts and looks like porcelain and ceramic. Available in the most popular colors for bathtubs and tiles - White, Almond and Biscuit - the kit makes it easy for even inexperienced do-it-yourselfers to get professional results on ceramic, porcelain and fiberglass fixtures.

Create a custom vanity.

You don't have to replace your vanity to give it a custom look. Transforming your old vanity is easy and fun thanks to products like Rust-Oleum Specialty Countertop Coating. It's available in 16 custom colors to match any bathroom decor. Want to soothe your soul and create a relaxing space? Cool colors, like blues and greens, create a peaceful, relaxed atmosphere. So, try Meadow or Palest Blue. Or for a cozy and casual feel, choose neutral colors like Canvas or Cobblestone. Then paint the cabinet in a coordinating or contrasting color to create a personalized vanity.

Don't forget the walls. A fresh coat of paint is one of the simplest ways to update the look of your bathroom - or add the style and elegance it's lacking. In bathrooms and other high humidity areas try a paint that offers protection against the growth of mold and mildew, like Perma-White Mold & Mildew-Proof Interior Paint, for a paint job that will stay looking beautiful for years.

Accessorize, accessorize, accessorize. It's easy to add a touch of personal style to your bathroom with a few accent pieces. Why not paint your old toothbrush holder, towel racks and soap dispensers with Painter's Touch spray paint in a soothing color like Natural Denim and Key Lime? Or, create custom picture frames, shelves and even plastic tissue covers or trash cans by painting them with Rust-Oleum's new Universal Silver Hammered spray paint. Universal is great for any surface - wood, metal, plastic and more. And, just one coat will unify mismatched pieces and give them a trendy finish.

Termite savvy

Benjamin Franklin was onto something when he said "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." But what does that mean for today's time-starved homeowners? When it comes to termites, savvy consumers can save thousands of dollars by preventing termite infestations altogether rather than repairing the damage caused by these silent but voracious pests.

Each year, Americans spend more than $5 billion repairing termite damage - a price tag not typically covered by homeowners' insurance policies. Consumers caught by surprise are left to foot the entire bill for costly damages that could have been detected early on or avoided entirely by regular inspections and preventative treatments by pest professionals. And once termites invade a property, they become part of that home's permanent record - a fact that makes prospective homebuyers uneasy, which could end up costing you more money in the long run.

However, taking a proactive approach to termites can afford homeowners some peace of mind and allow them to focus their time and attention elsewhere.

Get professional help. Signs of a termite infestation typically include small holes in wood, crumbling drywall and sagging doors or floors. However, according to Dr. Bob Davis, chief entomologist and member of the Expert Advisor Panel for the Termite Institute(TM) (www.TermiteInstitute.com), homeowners should focus on preventing termites and not just repairing their damage.

"Pest-related surprises can be avoided by hiring a pest management company to conduct regular inspections and protect the property."

Even if a termite problem is not found, that doesn't necessarily mean one won't arise. Using a premium preventative treatment like Termidor(R) termiticide/insecticide, homeowners can rest easy knowing their home is actively being protected from the prospect of a termite infestation.

Schedule regular professional check-ups. Simply scheduling one visit from a termite professional isn't enough. The goal is to always be one step

Must have tools

Getting into the D-I-Y home improvement game?

Every do-it-yourselfer needs an adequate tool arsenal to be able to complete projects correctly and safely. The challenge lies in figuring out what tools to keep on hand and which tools can be rented for project-specific tasks.

Worth the purchase:

- 16-oz curved-claw nail hammer with a rubber grip handle
- Basic screwdriver set that contains both flat blades as well as Phillips

- Cross-cut hand saw
- Cordless or corded power drill with a variety of bits
- Level
- C-Clamps to hold things you're trying to secure
- Retractable tape measure
- Adjustable wrench
- Slip-joint pliers
- Sandpaper in a variety of grit levels
- Lubricant
- Glues (wood glue, epoxy, and all-purpose)
- Duct tape
- Small flashlight

ahead of a termite problem, and that requires regularly scheduled check-ups. A home is a big investment, and such check-ups are more than worth it considering the time, effort, and money homeowners put into their home. Similar to a doctor visit, a clean bill of health in May doesn't mean a person won't get sick in September. The same goes for a termite infestation, and the only way to avoid an infestation is to prevent one from happening.

Louise Bartolo named E.M.A.R. Realtor of Year

Louise Bartolo, an experienced, active realtor with ERA Andrew Realty of Medford, Malden and Stoneham, was named Eastern Middlesex Association of Realtors' (EMAR) realtor of the Year.

The prestigious award was bestowed on Louise at the 2008 Eastern Middlesex Board's Annual Banquet held recently at the Hillview Country Club in North Reading.

EMAR's REALTOR® of the Year award is awarded to the REALTOR®/member who best exemplifies the Board's dedication to professionalism, volunteerism and community involvement, and who has made considerable contributions to EMAR and other REALTOR® organizations.

As EMAR's 2008 REALTOR® of the Year, Louise is now a contender for the state's REALTOR® of the Year award that will be announced at the Massachusetts Association of REALTORS® Professional Awards Recognition Dinner held at the state convention in September.

Louise is an accomplished, award-winning REALTOR® who has more than eight years experience in the business. Over the years she has been recognized for her outstanding sales and customer service achievements. Just this past winter, she received EMAR's distinguished Dorothy M. Shea award in recognition of her volunteer efforts and contributions to the Board.

Presently, Louise serves as the Secretary/Clerk of EMAR. She is also the acting Chairperson of EMAR's Charitable & Educational Foundation, a position she has held since 2007. Since 2003, Louise has served on this committee and been involved in the planning of a variety of successful events including, most notably, the Dancing with the REALTORS® event held last year and the upcoming Black and White Martini Ball to be held October.

In addition to her EMAR activities, Louise is a member of the Women's Council of REALTORS® Northern Region Chapter and served as the organization's Treasurer from 2005-2006.

On the State level, Louise served as an Alternate State Director of the Massachusetts Association of REALTORS® in 2007 and is currently serving as a State Director for the organization throughout 2008.

Dam nation in Tewksbury

"Walking through a backyard on Pinta Drive, past the pool and toward the brush at the edge of the property, feet squish and sink into the saturated lawn," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"Pushing through the thick brush and climbing onto large boulders, a pond is visible, choked with algae, weeds, and dead trees...lots of them."

"When we moved here nearly 10 years ago, it was completely dry," said the homeowner, Tony Venuti. No wet lawn, no dead trees, and certainly no pond. "Now we are starting to lose some of our land as the wetlands grow. A garden we planted around those big boulders is gone now and we cannot use the yard as we once did because it is so wet."

"Mowing the lawn is a challenge, as the lawn only begins to dry out at the end of August. Toy balls float across the pond to the Venuti backyard from homes on Harold Place. A home on Nina Drive has water up to the fence.

"I'm lucky because I have one of the biggest yards," says Venuti. The pond, created by two beaver dams located more than 400 yards from Venuti's yard, affects homes on Pinta and Nina drives, Harold Place, Meadowlands Road, to North Billerica Road.

"The homeowners made a complaint to the Board of Health and Tewksbury called in Beaver Solutions and its expert, Mike Callahan. Callahan handles most regional beaver nuisances, finding beaver dams and lodges and installing devices called Beaver Deceivers to help lower the level of pools created by the dams.

"Beaver Deceivers are really just hard, ridged, black plastic tubes surrounded by 2 inch by 4 inch steel fencing to keep the animals from building dams up against the pipe. The tube is driven through the dam, allowing water to flow again, and helping to reduce the level of the pond gradually...."

Poem

Over There

We've sent you our son way over there

Gone from his home, we don't know where

He's tall and strong, alert and straight

Whistling a tune, often with gait

We've guided, nurtured him along the way

Protected him best we could each day

Fun watching him play those boyish toys

"Bang, bang, shoot 'em up", such gleeful boys

They're only games, frisky little tiger be

We rejoiced in strong muscles, brave young he Always preparing him for what, we didn't know

All we knew was, "stay healthy son, as you grow",

Gently coax, "eat your spinach, brush your teeth",

He's that handsome one, his name is "Keith".

When you see that super son of ours

Does he rank with pride, polish and shine?

We're lending you our gift of love, that precious son so fine.

This week's sampler: Woburn

Awesome 'curb appeal' in affordable Woburn

Woburn's best new construction

The energy efficiency of a well planned, new construction is attractive to all of us these days.

This week's sampler brings us to a gorgeous 2300 square foot, expandable, 4 bedroom, 2.5 bath Colonial. Located on the Winchester/Stoneham line, this Woburn home is worth a visit.

When approaching the home, we are struck by the grandness of the home. The inviting red door, traditional colors, architectural shingles and detail work on the doors of the 2 car garage are clues to the quality inside.

The first floor livingroom flows beautifully into a generous family room off the kitchen. The focal point is the warm, crackling gas fireplace, adorned by a fluted, high mantel and dedicated task lighting. The basement is enormous, with high ceilings and finishing capabilities.

The formal diningroom leads seamlessly into a designer "chef's kitchen". The kitchen boasts Schrock cabinetry, brilliant high end stainless steel appliances and eye-catching granite countertops. The kitchen leads to an ample deck for backyard grilling.

Upstairs, this special home features four generously sized bedrooms including a 19 x 17 master suite with high tray ceilings, recessed lighting, a walk in closet and jacuzzied master bath.

This traditional home has beautiful hardwood floors, energy efficient windows and systems, central air, and first floor laundry. It sits on a pretty lot in a new home neighborhood.
